Introducing Communication Theory Richard West, West, Lynn H. Turner, 2017-06-16      Handbook of Research on Connecting Philosophy, Media, and Development in Developing Countries Okocha, Desmond Onyemechi, Onobe, Melchizedec J., Alike, Mirian Ngozi, 2022-05-13

Developing nations have been experimenting with different models and theories in their quest for development for decades but are missing some critical elements when mirrored or judged via a Westernized lens. In order for these countries to successfully establish their identity and address issues that have held them back in the past, further study on the use of media and philosophy in correlation with development must be conducted. The Handbook of Research on Connecting Philosophy Media and Development in Developing Countries examines how media can be utilized to bridge the gap between the past and the future for developing countries and drive sustainable development. The book also seeks to reimagine development within developing regions through the prism of their unique cultures, religions, media, and philosophies so they can take hold of their identity and portrayals within the international arena. Covering topics such as human development, new media, language, and culture, this major reference work is ideal for government officials, policymakers, scholars, researchers, academicians, practitioners, instructors, and students.

Black/Africana Communication Theory Kehbama Langmia, 2018-05-02

Most Western-driven theories do not have a place in Black communicative experience, especially in Africa. Many scholars interested in articulating and interrogating Black communication scholarship are therefore at the crossroads of either having to use Western-driven theory to explain a Black communication dynamic or have to use hypothetical rules to achieve their objectives since they cannot find compelling Black communication theories to use as reference. Colonization and the African slave trade brought with it assimilationist tendencies that have dealt a serious blow on the cognition of most Blacks on the continent and abroad. As a result, their interpersonal as well as in-group dialogic communication has witnessed dramatic shifts. Black Africana Communication Theory assembles skilled communicologists who propose uniquely Black-driven theories that stand the test of time. Throughout the volume's fifteen chapters, theories including but not limited to Afrocentricity, Afro Cultural, Mulatto, Venerative Speech Theory, Africana Symbolic Contextualism Theory, HaramBuntu, Government Diaspora Communications Theory, Consciencist Communication Theory, and Racial Democracy Effect Theory are introduced and discussed.

ECSM2014-Proceedings of the European Conference on Social Media Asher Rospigliosi, Sue Greener,      Introducing Communication Theory Richard L. Al-Obaidi, Jabbar A., 2024-07-17 With the advancement of technology and the increasing use of digital and social media platforms we are experiencing an unprecedented era of global connectivity and information sharing However alongside these advancements comes a pressing challenge the rampant spread of misinformation and disinformation fueling fragmentation and polarization within communities worldwide As regulations struggle to keep pace with technological innovation media scholars experts and practitioners face a critical need for comprehensive strategies to navigate this complex terrain Changing Global Media Landscapes Convergence Fragmentation and Polarization offers a solution to the multifaceted challenges of modern media and communication This book provides a vital platform for scholars and professionals to explore the intricacies of global media technologies and devise actionable strategies to combat misinformation With a keen focus on media ethics law and organizational management it equips readers with the tools needed to confront the evolving landscape of digital media responsibly and effectively      Indigenous Methodologies, Research and Practices for Sustainable Development

Marcellus F. Mbah, Walter Leal Filho, Sandra Ajaps, 2022-10-21 This book states that whilst academic research has long been grounded on the idea of western or scientific epistemologies this often does not capture the uniqueness of Indigenous contexts and particularly as it relates to the achievement of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals SDGs The SDGs were announced in 2015 accompanied by 17 goals and 169 targets

These goals are the means through which Agenda 2030 for sustainable development is to be pursued and realised over the next 15 years and the contributions of Indigenous peoples are essential to achieving these goals Indigenous peoples can be found in practically every region of the world living on ancestral homelands in major cities rainforests mountain regions desert plains the arctic and small Pacific Islands Their languages knowledges and values are rooted in the landscapes and natural resources within their territories However many Indigenous peoples are now minorities within their homelands and globally and there is a dearth of research based on Indigenous epistemologies and methodologies Furthermore academic research on Indigenous peoples is typically based on western lenses Thus the paucity of Indigenous methodologies within mainstream research discourses present challenges for implementing practical research designs and interpretations that can address epistemological distinctiveness within Indigenous communities There is therefore the need to articulate as well as bring to the nexus of research aimed at fostering sustainable development a decolonising perspective in research design and practice This is what this book wants to achieve The contributions critically reflect on Indigenous approaches to research design and implementation towards achieving the sustainable development goals as well as the associated challenges and opportunities The contributions also advanced knowledge theory and practice of Indigenous methodologies for sustainable development

International Business Strategy and Entrepreneurship: An Information Technology Perspective Ordóñez de Pablos, Patricia, 2013-11-30 There is a high demand in our society to adopt emerging technologies in all aspects of business and economic activity As traditional business practices and economic activity are occurring in a global context new areas of economic development are being recognized as the key enablers of wealth and income production International Business Strategy and Entrepreneurship An Information Technology Perspective discusses innovative solutions to research problems and high performance systems while emphasizing the role of IT and management for sustainable development This book brings together academics researchers entrepreneurs policy makers and government officers aiming to contribute to the debate of technology related to international business and strategic management
