CHILD ABUSE INVESTIGATION Donald A. Hayden, 2016-12-02 For investigators the emphasis of traditional forensics the science of the crime scene has resulted in the loss of deductive reasoning skills This book centers on the investigator's ability to interpret and identify non traditional cues and clues oftentimes seemingly innocent h actions through the investigator's deductive reasoning skills If the investigator can interpret these items and understand their evidentiary value and how this information becomes evidence of the crime itself an investigation is more likely to have a positive outcome Separated into five sections the first section defines the roles goals and outcomes The next section pertains to the psychological aspects of the parties involved including the victim the suspect and the non offending parents The third section concentrates on the investigation This section addresses and discusses court rulings and significant cases e g Crawford v Washington This is followed with interview methodologies and some leading interview guidelines The crime scene is discussed in the next section The fourth section reviews the court process and the final section addresses the impact of long term exposure to child abuse on team members The book includes chapter summaries and numerous actual case examples of some of the more well known and high profile investigations At the end of each chapter is a list of key terms along with critical thinking questions for the reader to analyze and provide answers to the presented problems The book will be an invaluable resource to law enforcement child protective services medical personnel courts and child advocates

Values Education and Quality Teaching Terence Lovat, Ron Toomey, 2009-04-07 Some revision of public schooling history is necessary to challenge the dominant mythology that public schools were established on the grounds of values neutrality In fact those responsible for the foundations of public education in Australia were sufficiently pragmatic to know that its success relied on its charter being in accord with public sentiment Part of the pragmatism was in convincing those whose main experience of education had been through some form of church based education that state based education was capable of meeting the same ends Hence the documents of the 1870s and 1880s that contained the charters of the various state and territory systems witness to a breadth of vision about the scope of education Beyond the standard goals of literacy and numeracy education was said to be capable of assuring personal morality for each individual and a suitable citizenry for the soon to be new nation As an instance the NSW Public Instruction Act of 1880 of NSW 1912 under the rubric of religious teaching stressed the need for students to be inculcated into the values of their society including understanding the role that religious values had played in forming that society's legal codes and social ethics The notion therefore that public education is part of a deep and ancient heritage around values neutrality is mistaken and in need of serious revision The evidence suggests that public education's initial conception was of being the complete educator not only of young people's minds but of their inner character as well
