Thomson, Ignace-Marie, 1816-1892, was a prominent suffragist (1840s and 1850s), reformer, and nationalist. He was one of the first to introduce the term "suffrage" into English. He was also one of the first to introduce the term "suffrage" into English. He was also one of the first to introduce the term "suffrage" into English.

Further genetic studies of some, nonrecombining selfing sites, and their association with recombining sites on the same chromosome suggest different evolutionary histories for the two sets of nuclear markers. This is consistent with the fact that chloroplast markers have not recombined in any examined populations. These results and some others indicate that the selfing sites may constitute nonrecombining, and other sites on the same nuclei function as sites that recombine in later pollen dispersal and floral processes. Together, our findings suggest that chloroplast markers are useful for studying the evolution of Populus.

Further genetic studies are needed, since numerous self-pollinating Alb. and Alba accessions still contained transgressive or transgressive-like progeny offspring over subsequent 100 years across all genetic markers, with several transgressive offspring progeny offspring still self-pollinating as well (see Figure 1).
