Automotive Lightweighting Using Advanced High-Strength Steels Paul E Geck,2014-06-13 Advanced high strength steels AHSS are a family of steels that are stronger than most steels and have better formability than today s conventional high strength steels New U S safety and fuel economy regulations have intensified pressure on OEMs to reduce vehicle weight These pressures are causing auto companies to rethink alternative material applications and to look for opportunities that steel offers The purpose of this book is to provide information for engineers who are designing the next generation of lighter vehicles The material in the book is presented to help them make informed decisions on what basic materials to use and how to optimize those materials to achieve cost effective weight reduction The emphasis is on steels in general and AHSS in particular However there is much information on comparisons of steel with alternative materials for different subsystems of the vehicle To support the latest automotive challenges in terms of weight reduction this book lays out the opportunities for alternative material use in automobiles and offers the most up to date design guidance in efficient architectures that use AHSS It simultaneously explores weight savings and resulting fuel economy advantages of a strategic usage of AHSS Realistic comparisons with other alternative materials are made through detailed analyses It also offers test cases that demonstrate how AHSS technology has developed The focus of the text is on body and chassis structures and the sheet metal of which these systems are primarily made More of the content addresses the automotive body as this is where most of the AHSS are being applied today The past present and future of AHSS are covered as well as competing technologies such as aluminum sheet metal      Catalysis and Automotive Pollution Control IV N. Kruse,A. Frennet,J.-M. Bastin,1998-05-29 In spite of the energy crises and the recession there has been a global explosive growth in the amount of motor vehicles In the past 50 years the amount has increased from 50 to 700 million vehicles For economical reasons they will probably continue to be used for a considerable number of years despite the poor yield of internal combustion engines resulting in the inevitable production of some gaseous pollutants The subsequent increase of gaseous pollutants in our atmosphere caused by exhaust gas from automobiles has enhanced the problem of the elimination of these pollutants produced by internal combustion engines Catalysis has proven to be the best solution to lower the content of exhaust gas in pollutants As its predecessors CAPoC4 proved to be a suitable platform for discussing technological improvements and developments along with future perspectives and challenges In the light of new results and further legislative regulations the following topics were intensely discussed low light off behaviour based on improved catalysts and substrate formulations efficient adsorber systems for storage of hydrocarbon emissions electrically heated catalyst systems ahead the main catalyst or alternatively close coupled catalysts at the manifold of the engine lean DeNOx catalysts allowing for decomposition of NOx in the oxygen rich exhaust of direct injection gasoline engines and high speed injection diesel engines or alternatively NOx trapping reduction in a hybrid approach collection and destruction of dry particulates or soot There is no doubt that clean vehicle technology is a vital part of improving air quality Challenges remain and call for technological answers Catalytic air pollution control is still an area providing a considerable incentive for innovative work Guide to Distance Education in
