Tales from the Tail End Emma Milne, 2013-05-01 James Herriot meets Bridget Jones in this honest no holds barred account of the ups and downs of a vet's life Misty was ecstatic to see her owner but to the nurse's surprise her owner just stood there and said What have you done with my dog's head I'm sorry replied the nurse what do you mean She's just been in for spaying That isn't my dog's head The rest of it is my dog but you've put a different head on it On a crisp October morning in 1996 Emma Milne started her first job as a newly qualified vet and now she tells the full story We discover the numerous things that can get stuck in an animal's stomach how to stop a cow exploding and the biggest truth of all that animals are easy to deal with in comparison to their owners They say that truth is stranger than fiction and these tales turn out to be stranger and funnier than you could ever have imagined Jebel Marra Michelle Green, 2015-06-09 When war breaks out a swarm of other industries quickly surrounds the battlefield aid agencies NGOs international media corporations mercenaries and private investors all descend on the conflict like a second wave of invaders Never was this more so than in 2004 when Darfur in western Sudan erupted into civil war Accusations of government sponsored ethnic cleansing and what the UN described as the world's worst humanitarian crisis combined to put this previously unheard of region under the world's spotlight Yet for all the influx of foreign agencies and outside interest very little was and still is known about the causes of this conflict Here Michelle Green a former aid worker in Darfur re-tells the story of the war from 15 different perspectives capturing by turns the brutal indifference of the government war machine the terrible scars inflicted on individuals caught in its path and the complex melting pot of experiences that constitutes any relief effort Though fictional these stories reach beyond the myths so often used to simplify this crisis and offer moving first hand insights into a tragedy that like so many others disappeared from our headlines all too quickly At a time when we claim we suffer from compassion fatigue and we hope that clicking yes on an online petition will effect actual change Michelle Green's stories about aid workers and refugees and war torn far away places remind us that yes this matters and yes it is urgent and yes these stories are here to help us remember what it all means Kate Pullinger The Exmoor Files Liz Jones, 2009-08-06 Moving from Islington to Exmoor one small step for mankind but a very large one for MAIL ON SUNDAY columnist Liz Jones Liz Jones lived the perfect urban life The immaculate Georgian townhouse in a leafy London square The glamorous career The Italian wardrobe stuffed with designer bags and shoes The much younger novelist husband But then it all goes horribly wrong She discovers her husband has been having numerous affairs with women who are younger dimmer slimmer and realises that her pursuit of perfection has never made her happy and probably never will And so she decides to start all over again burying herself alive in the middle of the bleak unforgiving wilderness that is Exmoor National Park She buys a wreck of a farmhouse with an original stable block 46 acres an ancient wood and a lake She rescues a nervous and abused but breathtakingly beautiful racehorse and hopes to live out the rural dream The reality of course is much much harder THE EXMOOR FILES is a funny honest often
