- 1. Identify the variables (independent, dependent, control, confounding) in the study.
  - Independent variable: the variable that is manipulated or varied by the researcher.
  - Dependent variable: the variable that is measured or observed.
  - Control variable: the variable that is held constant to ensure that the results are due to the independent variable.
  - Confounding variable: the variable that is not controlled for and may affect the results.
- 2. Formulate a hypothesis (a statement about the expected relationship between variables).
  - Directional hypothesis: predicts the direction of the relationship (e.g., "increased study time leads to higher scores").
  - Non-directional hypothesis: predicts a relationship but not the direction (e.g., "study time is related to scores").
  - Null hypothesis: predicts no relationship (e.g., "study time has no effect on scores").
- 3. Design the study (choose a research design, select participants, control confounding variables).
  - Research design: the overall plan for the study (e.g., experimental, correlational, quasi-experimental).
  - Participants: the individuals who take part in the study.
  - Control confounding variables: use random assignment, control groups, blinding, etc.
- 4. Collect and analyze data (gather data, use statistical tests to evaluate the hypothesis).
  - Data collection: the process of gathering information from participants.
  - Data analysis: the process of using statistical tests to evaluate the hypothesis.
- 5. Interpret the results (draw conclusions, discuss limitations, suggest future research).
  - Interpretation: the process of making sense of the results.
  - Conclusions: the final statements about the study's findings.
  - Limitations: the weaknesses or constraints of the study.
  - Future research: suggestions for further studies.

Abstract

- 1) Describe the factors (background and previous of speaking) related from this study. Does the background information related from this study can help you to understand the context?
- 2) What is the subject and speaking situation in the study and why it is important for you to study it?
- 3) Describe why this study is important to you and can be helpful to you in the future.
- 4) What are your goals or objectives from this study or from this subject?
- 5) What is your motivation in the study of your study topic and how it relates to the topic presented in the first group of the research?
- 6) What are your reasons or your point of view to do this study or to do research on this topic? (related to your background and other factors of speaking)
- 7) What are your reasons or your point of view to do this study or to do research on this topic? (related to your background and other factors of speaking)
- 8) What are your reasons or your point of view to do this study or to do research on this topic? (related to your background and other factors of speaking)

Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a supervised walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group consisted of 12 weeks of no supervised walking. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The walking program had a significant positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the subjects. The walking program significantly improved the subjects' physical health, as measured by the 6-minute walk test, and their psychological health, as measured by the Beck Depression Inventory and the State-Trait Anxiety Inventory. The walking program also significantly improved the subjects' quality of life, as measured by the SF-36. The walking program was well tolerated and had no adverse effects. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program can improve the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women.
