Hale and Kipp

On the night of July 23, 1848, a man named Thomas Kipp was observing the night sky in Arkansas through a telescope. He had already watched the sky with the telescope. Kipp noticed a faint glow that he had never seen before. He asked a friend who was with him to look at the new star. There were too many towns along to guess how the glow was far from the star.

The day was bright in New Mexico. Hale Kipp went outside to look at the night sky through his telescope as he often did.

It was a very clear night. Hale looked up with his telescope at a part of the sky he had been studying a few weeks earlier. Suddenly, he noticed a mystery. He had noticed something new. Hale had seen a faint, fuzzy glow. Kipp had made a quick sketch of what he saw. He believed he had just found a comet.

Hale, too, checked the new star. Like Kipp, he did not find the object in the sky. Kipp had seen a message in a glass to Massachusetts that many of comets. He told the people of the center what he had seen.

Thomas Kipp also sent a message to the center in Massachusetts. The next morning, he heard back from the center. Kipp, like Hale, had discovered a new comet.

Twelve hours after Hale and Kipp had first seen the comet, it had a name of Hale Kipp.
