

- Production function enables us to make interesting predictions about the level of wages and rental costs of capital. This will also help us see how the economy distributes national income to workers and capital owners
 - We conduct this analysis under a classical framework, assuming the economy has perfect competition
- Perfect competition: means that firms take market prices as given because they are not large or powerful enough to charge more than the market price for their goods or services
- Demand for Capital and Labor
 - Economic Profits: the revenue from selling goods and services, minus the costs of the inputs. Key components of economic profit include the following:
 - 1. The revenue from selling goods and services is the average level of the prices of goods and services, P , times the amount of goods and services sold, Y : using the production function, the revenue $P \times Y$ is $P \times F(K,L)$
 - 2. The cost of using capital is the price paid to rent the capital, often referred to as the rental price of capital, R , times the amount of capital, K , that is, RK
 - 3. The cost of labor is the price of labor, the wage rate, W , times the amount of labor, L , that is, WL
 - Write nominal economic profits(or cost) as follows:
 - $P \times F(K,L) - RK - WL$
 - National income is thus divided between payments to labor and payments to capital, with the size and quantities of these payments determined by the marginal products of labor and capital
 - Real labor income= $.7(Y/L) \times L = 0.7Y$
 - Real Capital Income= $.3(Y/K) \times K = 0.3Y$
 - National Income= $0.7Y + 0.3Y = \text{real labor income} + \text{capital income}$

The labor income share of .7 is the value of the exponent on labor in the Cobb-Douglas production function that we defined in Equation 2, while the capital income share of .3 is the value of the exponent on capital in the production function. Most importantly, if the cobb-douglas production function is correct, then the shares of labor income and capital income in national income do not change even as the total level of income rises and falls.
