Orhan Pamuk and the Good of World Literature Gloria Fisk,2018-02-13 When Orhan Pamuk won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 2006 he was honored as a builder of bridges across a dangerous chasm By rendering his Turkish characters and settings familiar where they would otherwise seem troublingly foreign and by speaking freely against his authoritarian state he demonstrated a variety of literary greatness that testified also to the good literature can do in the world Gloria Fisk challenges this standard for canonization as world literature by showing how poorly it applies to Pamuk Reading the Turkish novelist as a case study in the ways Western readers expand their reach Fisk traces the terms of his engagement with a literary market dominated by the tastes of its Anglophone publics who received him as a balm for their anxieties about Islamic terrorism and the stratifications of global capitalism Fisk reads Pamuk's post 9 11 novels as they circulated through this audience as rich in cultural capital as it is far flung in the American English that is global capital's lingua franca She launches a polemic against Anglophone readers instrumental use of literature as a source of crosscultural understanding contending that this pervasive way of reading across all manner of borders limits the globality it announces because it serves the interests of the Western cultural and educational institutions that produce it Orhan Pamuk and the Good of World Literature proposes a new way to think about the uneven processes of translation circulation and judgment that carry contemporary literature to its readers wherever they live

Foundations of Islamic Governance Maszlee Malik,2016-12-19 Islam can contribute towards the development of societies by establishing a unique model of governance from its explicit ontological worldview through a directed descriptive epistemology The research on governance in this study does not only focus on the positivistic materialist components such as institutions or mechanisms or growth per se but it encompasses the value laden holistic nature of human life in accordance with the Islamic worldview as an important contribution In doing so it formulates good governance in Islam in relation to the conceptualized ihsani social capital which constitutes the main thrust of the constructed model
