Federal Register ,2013-02      Industrial Aviation Management Martin Hinsch,2018-09-07 This book outlines the structure and activities of companies in the European aviation industry The focus is on the design production and maintenance of components assemblies engines and the aircraft itself In contrast to other industries the technical aviation industry is subject to many specifics since its activities are highly regulated by the European Aviation Safety Agency EASA the National Aviation Authorities and by the aviation industry standard EN 9100 These regulations can influence the companies organization personnel qualification quality management systems as well as the provision of products and services This book gives the reader a deeper up to date insight into today s quality and safety requirements for the modern aviation industry Aviation specific interfaces and procedures are looked at from both the aviation legislation standpoint as well as from a practical operational perspective      Handbook of Human Factors in Air Transportation Systems Steven James

Landry,2017-11-22 One of the primary applications of human factors engineering is in the aviation domain and the importance of human factors has never been greater as U S and European authorities seek to modernize the air transportation system through the introduction of advanced automation This handbook provides regulators practitioners researchers and educators a comprehensive resource for understanding and applying human factors to air transportation

Condition-Based Maintenance in Aviation Ravi Rajamani,2018-12-11 Condition Based Maintenance in Aviation The History The Business and The Technology describes the history and practice of Condition Based Maintenance CBM systems by showcasing ten technical papers from the archives of SAE International stretching from the dawn of the jet age down to the present times By scientifically understanding how different components degrade during operations it is possible to schedule inspections repairs and overhauls at appropriate intervals so that any incipient failure can be detected well in advance Today this includes more sensors and analytics so that periodic inspections are replaced by automated continuous inspections and analytical methods that detect imminent failures and predict degradation issues more economically and efficiently Similar concepts are also being developed for delivering prognostics functions such as tracking of remaining useful life RUL of life limited parts in aircraft engines The discipline within CBM that deals with this is called prognostics and health management PHM which covers all aspects of diagnostics and prognostics including modeling of systems and subsystems sensing data transmission storage and retrieval analytical methods and decision making Traditionally nondestructive testing NDT methods have been employed during the major airplane checks to assess structural damage These techniques are enhanced with in situ sensing techniques that can continuously monitor aircraft structures and report on their health The move to condition based assessment of maintenance needs to be balanced by the assurance that safety is not compromised that initial cost of new equipment is amortized by the savings and that regulatory authorities are on board with any modifications to the planned maintenance schedule The trend is clearly to include more CBM functions into

Maintenance Repair and Overhaul MRO processes so better cost control can be achieved without ever comprising passenger safety
