

Level of response marking instructions

Level of response marking schemes are broken down into levels, each of which has a descriptor. The descriptor for the level shows the average performance for the level. There are marks in each level.

Before you mark the mark scheme for a student's answer, read through the answer and decide if an instruction to show the quality that is being marked for. This can then apply the mark scheme.

Step 1: Determine a level

Start at the lowest level of the mark scheme and ask if you are able to see whether the answer meets the descriptor for that level. The descriptor for the level indicates the different qualities that might be seen in the student's answer for that level. If it meets the lowest level then go to the next one and decide if it meets this level, and so on, until you have a level against the level descriptor and the answer. With practice and experience, you will find that for better answers you will be able to quickly step through the lower levels of the mark scheme.

When assigning a level you should look at the overall quality of the answer and not look to add marks to small and specific parts of the answer. When the student has not performed well in all or the majority of the answer, mark different aspects at different levels of the mark scheme, you should use a mean to approach to setting the level and then use the midpoint of the response to help decide the mark within the level. As the response is predominantly level 1 with a small amount of level 2 material it would be placed in level 1 but the descriptor for level 1 says the top of the level descriptor of the level is correct.

Step 2: Determine a mark

Once you have assigned a level you need to decide on the mark. The descriptors for the 10 different marks can help with this. The different marks have varying descriptions of what they show and are an answer in the understanding materials which will correspond with each level of the mark scheme. The answer will have been decided on first by the user/teacher. You can compare the student's answer with the example to determine if it is the same standard, better or worse than the example. You can then use this to allocate a mark for the answer based on the user/teacher's mark on the example.

The mark will need to be marked through the answer so you apply the mark scheme to specific points and discuss yourself how the level and the mark are appropriate.

Indication content in the mark scheme is provided as a guide for responses. It is not intended to be exhaustive and you must read other instructions. Students do not have to cover all of the points mentioned in the indication content to reach the highest level of the mark scheme.

An answer which contains nothing of relevance to the question must be awarded no marks.
