Reconstructing Undergraduate Education Robert B. Innes,2004-07-22 This book is designed to introduce professors and administrators in higher education to the philosophical theoretical and research support for using a constructivist perspective on learning to guide the reconstruction of undergraduate education It presents an original framework for systematically linking educational philosophy and learning theories to their implications for teaching practice In this volume Innes summarizes the sources he found most useful in developing his own set of teaching principles and course development process and makes an argument for a particular perspective on learning transactional constructivism which is consistent with the philosophy of John Dewey and supported by current theory and research in learning science

Large-Scale Studies in Mathematics Education James A. Middleton, Jinfa Cai, Stephen Hwang, 2015-05-05 In recent years funding agencies like the Institute of Educational Sciences and the National Science Foundation have increasingly emphasized large scale studies with experimental and quasi experimental designs looking for objective truths Educational researchers have recently begun to use large scale studies to understand what really works from developing interventions to validation studies of the intervention and then to efficacy studies and the final scale up for large implementation of an intervention Moreover modeling student learning developmentally taking into account cohort factors issues of socioeconomics local political context and the presence or absence of interventions requires the use of large data sets wherein these variables can be sampled adequately and inferences made Inroads in quantitative methods have been made in the psychometric and sociometric literatures but these methods are not yet common knowledge in the mathematics education community In fact currently there is no volume devoted to discussion of issues related to large scale studies and to report findings from them This volume is unique as it directly discusses methodological issue in large scale studies and reports empirical data from large scale studies
