

Travel Writing

(Top Tips)

A travel writer travels all over the world and writes about what they see. This writing then either goes into a book or is sent to a magazine. Below are some top tips that you should use when travel writing.

1. Read plenty of travel stories in magazines and newspapers, and talk about what you like about them, and what you dislike.
2. Focus on what's interesting and different about the place. Find details that are significant in some way, (they might be unusual, colourful or humorous). Just look for something that makes the place special.
3. You must learn to record the sights, sounds and smells of a country. Your reader wants to feel like they are travelling alongside you. Have you ever tried to describe the sound of the wind on a mountain top or to write about the wonderful smells from an Italian kitchen?
4. Finally, do your research! Make sure that you know everything about your topic before you start writing. Make as many notes as you can.

Young Citizens of the World Marilynne Boyle-Baise, Jack Zevin, 2013-12-04 Young Citizens of the World takes a clear stance. Social studies is about citizenship education that is informed, deliberative and activist citizenship, not only as a noun something one studies but as a verb something one DOES. Its holistic multicultural approach is based on this clear curricular and pedagogical purpose. Straightforward, engaging and highly interactive, the book encourages students and their teachers to become informed, think it through and take action. Each chapter is written as a civic engagement which is teacher ready for use in elementary classrooms. A set of six teaching strategies that are constructive, inquiry driven, dramatic and deliberative bring the curricular framework to life through intensive, integrated, meaningful studies of special places, important people and significant times. Readers are invited to rehearse the projects in their social studies education courses and then to reinterpret them for their classrooms. The projects are supported by important resources for teaching including supportive children's literature, links to internet sites and visual sources and by a Companion Website that enhances and extends the text.
