Schamp, 2012-12-06 This book is the product of four years of collaborative work within the framework of the European Science Foundation s Regional and Urban Restructuring in Europe RURE programme With one exception all of the chapters have been prepared by participants in RURE the exception being that commissioned from Conti and Enrietti on Fiat and Italy to provide a fuller coverage of changes in the main automobile producing companies and countries of Europe. A perhaps the central theme around which the RURE programme was conceived is that the restructuring of the production system lies at the heart of the changing map of Europe. Equally it continues to be the case that the automobile industry lies at the cutting edge of the search for viable new models of production. Some eighty years ago the automobile industry occupied a pivotal position in the transition from craft to mass production indeed Fordism came to denote not just a particular micro economic model of production organisation in the factory but a macro scale model of economic development characterized by a particular pattern of relations between mass production mass consumption and national state regulation. From the late 1960s however it became increasingly clear that Fordism as a macro scale model of advanced capitalist development was reaching its limits.

The expansion of American firms in Europe however lacked a comprehensive study. This book gathers the works of two dozen economic and business historians from across Europe preceded by Mira Wilkins comparative essay. The collection addresses the timetable and pace of American direct investment in Europe the patterns followed in each country according to the specificities of each industry and service sector and the strategies followed by the different firms. The studies go beyond the facts scrutinizing the immaterial aspects of this business history especially European perceptions of American firms and the essential stakes of corporate images and identities. The Europeanization of American firms is a key issue including social relations management commercial policies brand image connections and embeddedness. The authors gauge the reaction of public authorities and lobbies industrialists and trade unions. Graphs and tables provide data while overviews of ads published by American affiliates fuel analyses of consumer perception.
