William Easter, Qiuqiong Huang, 2014-07-30 This book evaluates the history the present and the future of water markets on 5 continents beginning with the institutional underpinnings of water markets and factors influencing transaction costs The book examines markets in seven countries and three different U S states ranging from village level water markets in Oman to basin wide formal water markets in Australia s Murray Darling River basin

Introductory chapters on the background of water markets and on transaction costs and policy design are followed by chapter length discussion of water markets as an adaptive response to climate change and of supply reliability in a changing climate Case studies describe a variety of facets of the design and function of markets around the world California Chile Spain Oman Australia Canada India and China In analyzing these real world examples of markets the contributors explore water rights and trading of rights between agricultural and urban sectors and the principles and function of option markets They discuss different sized approaches from large scale ministry level administration of markets to informal arrangements among farmers in the same village or groups of villages which allocate water without large investment in management and infrastructure Discussion includes questions of why water market practices have not expanded more rapidly in arid places The book discusses mechanisms for resolving conflicts between water rights holders as well as between water right holders and third parties impacted by water trades and whether or not public ownership of water rights or use rights should trump private ownership and under what condition Also covered are new and expanding categories of water use beyond human consumption agriculture and industry to new technologies ranging from extracting natural gas from shale to producing biofuels The book concludes with suggestions for future water markets and offers a realistic picture of how they might change water use and distribution practices going forward

The Dictatorship of Woke Capital Stephen R. Soukup,2023-04-25 For the better part of a century the Left has been waging a slow methodical battle for control of the institutions of Western civilization During most of that time business and American Big Business in particular remained the last redoubt for those who believe in free people free markets and the criticality of private property Over the past two decades however that has changed and the Left has taken its long march to the last remaining non Leftist institution Over the course of the past two years or so a small handful of politicians on the Right Senators Tom Cotton Marco Rubio and Josh Hawley to name three have begun to sense that something is wrong with American business and have sought to identify the problem and offer solutions to rectify it While the attention of high profile politicians to the issue is welcome to date the solutions they have proposed are inadequate for a variety of reasons including a failure to grasp the scope of the problem failure to understand the mechanisms of corporate governance and an overreliance on state imposed top down solutions This book provides a comprehensive overview of the problem and the players involved both on the aggressive hardcharging Left and in the nascent conservative resistance It explains what the Left is doing and how and why the Right must be prepared and willing to fight back to save this critical aspect of American culture from becoming another more economically powerful version of the woke college campus
