Dunn,2003 Half a million years ago our ancestors learned to make fire from scratch They crafted intricate tools from stone and brewed mind altering elixirs from honey Their descendants transformed clay into pottery wool into clothing and ashes into cleansers In ceramic crucibles they won metal from rock the metals lead to colored glazes and glass Buildings of brick and mortar enshrined books of parchment and paper Kings and queens demanded ever more colorful clothing and accessories in order to out class clod hoppers and call girls Kingdoms rose and fell by the power of saltpeter sulfur and charcoal And the demands of everyday folk for glass and paper and soap stimulated the first round of chemical industrialization From sulfuric acid to sodium carbonate From aniline dyes to analgesic drugs From blasting powder to fertilizers and plastics In a phrase From Caveman to Chemist Your guides on this journey are the four alchemical elements Fire Earth Air and Water These archetypical characters deliver first hand accounts of the births of their respective technologies The spirit of Fire for example was born in the first creature to cultivate the flame This spirit passed from one person to another from one generation to another from one millennium to another arriving at last in the pages of this book The spirit of Earth taught folks to make tools of stone the spirit of Air imparted knowledge of units and the spirit of Water began with the invention of spirits Having traveled the world from age to age who can say where they will find their next home Perhaps they will find one in you Study and Quiz Outline William Lloyd Evans,1923 and universities Chemical Pedagogy discusses teaching approaches and techniques the reasoning behind them and the evidence for their effectiveness The book surveys a wide range of different pedagogic strategies and tactics that have been recommended to better engage learners and provide more effective chemistry teaching These accounts are supported by an initial introduction to some key ideas and debates about pedagogy the science of teaching Chemical Pedagogy discusses how teaching innovations can be tested to inform research based practice Through this book the author explores the challenges of carrying out valid experimental studies in education and the impediments to generalising study results to diverse teaching and learning contexts As a result the author highlights both the need to read published studies critically and the value of teachers and lecturers testing out recommended innovations in their own classrooms Chemical Pedagogy introduces core principles from research into human cognition and learning to provide a theoretical perspective on how to best teach for engagement and understanding An examination of some of the more contentious debates about pedagogy leads to the advice to seek optimally guided instruction which balances the challenge offered to learners with the level of support provided This provides a framework for discussing a wide range of teaching approaches and techniques that have been recommended to those teaching chemistry across educational levels including both those intended to replace teaching from the front and others that can be built into traditional lecture courses to enhance the learning experience
