Service learning is entering a post initiatory phase At tertiary institutions of all types and sizes service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity Taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning Now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice Following established best practice is not enough instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership While there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned In response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges These conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts This text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner Faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level This book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning This could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses Higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices Journalistic Authority Matt Carlson, 2017-05-23

When we encounter a news story why do we accept its version of events Why do we even recognize it as news A complicated set of cultural structural and technological relationships inform this interaction and Journalistic Authority provides a relational theory for explaining how journalists attain authority The book argues that authority is not a thing to be possessed or lost but a relationship arising in the connections between those laying claim to being an authority and those who assent to it Matt Carlson examines the practices journalists use to legitimate their work professional orientation development of specific news forms and the personal narratives they circulate to support a privileged social place He then considers journalists relationships with the audiences sources technologies and critics that shape journalistic authority in the contemporary media environment Carlson argues that journalistic authority is always the product of complex and variable relationships Journalistic Authority weaves together journalists relationships with their audiences sources technologies and critics to present a new model for understanding journalism while advocating for practices we need in an age of fake news and shifting norms At the Heart of It All? Anne Overbeck, 2019-01-29

The structure of the African American family has been a recurring theme in American discourse on the African American community The role of African American mothers especially has been the cause of heated debates since the time of Reconstruction in the 19th century The discourse which often saw the African American family as something that needed fixing also put the issue of women's reproductive rights on the political agenda Taking a long term perspective from the 1920s to the early 1990s Anne Overbeck aims to show how normative notions of the American family influenced the perspective on the African American family especially African American women The book follows the negotiations on African American women's reproductive rights within the context of eugenics modernization theory overpopulation and the War on Drugs Thereby it sets out to trace both continuities and changes in the discourse on the reproductive rights of African American women that still influence our perspective on the African American family today (Re)Considering What We Know Linda Adler-Kassner, Elizabeth Wardle, 2020-01-10 men or to focus specifically on how their interlocking racial class and gender statuses affect their globally powerful decisionmaking Some of the power positions of these elite white men might seem obvious but they are rarely analyzed for their extraordinary significance While the principal focus of this book is on neglected research and policy questions about the elite white male role and dominance in the system of racial oppression in the United States and globally because of their positioning at the top of several societal hierarchies the authors periodically address their role and dominance in other oppressive e g class gender hierarchies
