Part 1: Essay

Throughout the "I Have a Dream" speech, Martin Luther King Jr. addresses themes of freedom, justice, and the future. His appeals for justice and freedom reflect his desire not to rest until all people are equal. However, his dreams of equality among all men and unity between nations and people mainly have yet to be fully realized. Those dreams are deferred, and they might result in the explosion from the rising anger and oppression and the disintegration of society. His message of equality and unity is still relevant today, as discrimination and division exist in many parts of the world.

The first dream that has not been realized was equality; however, despite the progress toward achieving equality, systemic issues and inequalities persist in society today, which would fuel the anger of people whose dreams of equality are deferred and then burst explode. Over time, we thought we had settled the discrimination against races, but deep down, the dream of justice will hardly ever be fulfilled, especially after the events of George Floyd. On May 25, 2020, George Floyd, a black man, was fatally pinned to the ground by white Minneapolis police officer Derek Chauvin for nearly ten minutes (History.com, A&E Television Networks). Bystanders who witnessed the death captured it, sparking what may have been the most significant protest movement in American history as well as a national reckoning with race. Linking this accident to the outcome of "Deferred Dreams" from Langston Hughes's poem has opened the question of "Does it explode?" relating the unrecognized dream of equality as a possible outcome of explosion metaphorically. With people demanding an end to systemic racism and race inequalities, the incident sparked outrage and protests in the United States and worldwide, which explains the metaphoric word "explode" from the poem. It also resulted in a renewed focus on the Black Lives Matter movement and calls for moral reform. We have almost failed to realize the justice of the fact that all men are created equal, that we can never fully embrace this dream and turn it into reality. "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal."

The second dream that has not been realized is unity, resulting in the society's disintegration. King emphasizes his "dream" of a different future: "Little black boys and black girls will be able to join hands with little white boys and white girls as sisters and brothers." This image of hope is juxtaposed with the difficulty of the present moment, which is the group's disintegration of society, named segregation. While the Civil Rights Act
