On Feeding the Masses John K. Yasuda, 2017-12-28 China's food safety system is in crisis Egregious scandals as varied as the sale of liquor laced with Viagra and the distribution of fake eggs reveal how regulatory practices have been stretched to their limit in the world's largest food production system On Feeding the Masses focuses on the oft cited but ultimately overlooked concept of scale to identify the root causes of China's regulatory failures in food safety The politics of scale framework highlights how regulators disagree on which level of government is best suited to regulate the scale of governance struggle to address multilevel tensions multidimensional scale integration and fail to understand how policies at one level of government can affect other levels of government in unexpected and costly ways scale externalities Drawing from over 200 interviews with food safety regulators and producers the study provides one of the most comprehensive accounts of China's food safety crisis to date

Regional Dynamics in a Decentralized Indonesia Hal Hill, 2014-11-07 Indonesia is the world's largest archipelagic state In 2001 it embarked on a big bang decentralization involving a major transfer of administrative political and financial authority to its districts now numbering more than 500 Together with the rapid transition from authoritarian to democratic rule in the late 1990s this initiative has transformed the country's political social and business life While national government is the major area of contestation power has shifted irreversibly away from the centre How this significantly increased regional autonomy works will have a crucial bearing on the future of the Indonesian nation state This volume features contributions by over 40 writers with deep expertise on Indonesia The book provides a timely comprehensive and analytical assessment of the country's regional development dynamics in the post decentralization environment It explores historical political and development patterns at the regional level the relationship between decentralization and governance local level perspectives migration cities and connectivity and the challenges confronting the peripheral regions of Aceh and Papua

The State of the System Paul W. Bennett, 2020-09-23 Over the last fifty years Canada's public schools have been absorbed into a modern education system that functions much like Max Weber's infamous iron cage Crying out for democratic school level reform the system is now a centralized bureaucratic fortress that every year becomes softer on standards for students less accessible to parents further out of touch with communities and surprisingly unresponsive to classroom teachers Exploring the nature of the Canadian education order in all its dimensions The State of the System explains how public schools came to be so bureaucratic confronts the critical issues facing kindergarten to grade 12 public schools in all ten provinces and addresses the need for systemic reform Going beyond a diagnosis of the stresses strains and ills present in the system Paul Bennett proposes a bold plan to re engineer schools on a more human scale as the first step in truly reforming public education In place of school consolidation and managerialism one size fits all uniformity limited school choice and the success for all curriculum Bennett advocates for a new set of priorities decentralize school governance deprogram education ministries and school districts listen to parents and teachers and revitalize local education democracy Tackling the thorny issues besetting contemporary school systems in Canada The State of the System issues a clarion call for more responsive engaged and accountable public schools

European Yearbook of Constitutional Law 2020 Ernst Hirsch Ballin, Gerhard van der Schyff, Maarten Stremler, Maartje De Visser, 2021-03-27 The European Yearbook of Constitutional Law EYCL is an annual publication devoted to the study of constitutional law It aims to provide a forum for in depth analysis and discussion of new developments in the field both in Europe and beyond This second volume examines the constitutional positioning of cities across space and time Unrelenting urbanisation means that most people are or soon will be living in cities and that city administrations become in many respects their quintessential governing units Cities are places where State power is operationalised and concretised where laws and government policies transform from parchment objectives to practical realities In a similar vein cities are also places for the realisation of the constitutional rights and liberties enjoyed by individuals The book is organised around three sets of relations that await further unpacking in theory as well as practice that between cities and other institutions in the national constitutional architecture that between cities and their inhabitants and that between cities and international organisations The contributions to this book show the marked diversity in the role and powers available to cities in Europe and beyond and identify principles and approaches to help stipulate new ways of thinking about the legal role and relevance of cities going forward Ernst Hirsch Ballin is distinguished university professor at Tilburg University and vice dean for research of Tilburg Law School Gerhard van der Schyff is associate professor at Tilburg Law School Department of Public Law and Governance Maarten Stremler is lecturer at Maastricht University Faculty of Law Department of Public Law

Captive Audience Catherine Gidney, 2019-04-02 White Spot, a popular BC restaurant chain solicits hamburger concepts from third and fourth grade students, and one of the student's ideas becomes a feature on the kids menu. Home Depot donates playground equipment to an elementary school, and the ribbon cutting ceremony culminates in a community swathed in corporate swag, temporary tattoos, and a new Home Depot song written by a teacher and sung by the children. Kindergarten students return home with a school district prescribed dental hygiene flyer featuring a maze leading to a tube of Crest toothpaste. Schools receive five cents for each flyer handed to a student. While commercialism has existed in our schools for over a century, the corporate invasion of our schools reached unprecedented heights in the 1990s and 2000s, after two decades of federal funding cuts and an increasing tendency to apply business models to the education system. Constant cutbacks have left school trustees, administrators, teachers, and parents with difficult decisions about how to finance programs and support students. Meanwhile, studies on the impact of advertising and consumer culture on children make clear that the effects are harmful both to the individual child and the broader culture. Captive Audience explores this compelling history of branding the classroom in Canada.

Twenty Years of Education Transformation in Gauteng 1994 to 2014 Maringe, Felix, Prew, Martin, 2015-05-05 Twenty Years of Education Transformation in Gauteng 1994 to 2014. An Independent Review presents a collection of 15 important essays on different aspects of education in Gauteng since the advent of democracy in 1994. These essays talk to what a provincial education department does and how and why it does these things, whether it be about policy, resourcing, or implementing projects. Each essay is written by one or more specialist in the relevant focus area. The book is written to be accessible to the general reader as well as being informative and an essential resource for the specialist reader. It sheds light on aspects of how a provincial department operates and why and with what consequences certain decisions have been made in education over the last 20 turbulent years, both nationally and provincially. There has been no attempt to fit the book's chapters into a particular ideological or educational paradigm, and as a result, the reader will find differing views on various aspects of the Gauteng Department of Education's present and past. We leave the reader to decide to what extent the GDE has fulfilled its educational mandate over the last 20 years.

Population Health Intervention Research Daniel W. Harrington, Sara McLafferty, Susan J. Elliott, 2016-07-22 Health geographers are well situated for undertaking population health intervention research (PHIR) and have an opportunity to be at the forefront of this emerging area of inquiry. However, in order to advance PHIR, the scientific community needs to be innovative with its methodologies, theories, and ability to think critically about population health issues. For example, using alternatives, e.g., community-based participatory research, to traditional study designs such as the randomised control trial, health geographers can contribute in important ways to understanding the complex relationships between population health both intended and unintended consequences interventions and place. Representing a diverse array of health concerns ranging across chronic and infectious diseases and research employing varied qualitative and quantitative methodologies the contributions to this book illustrate how geographic concepts and approaches have informed the design and planning of interventions and or the evaluation of health impacts. For example the authors argue that geographically targeting interventions to places of high need and tailoring interventions to local place contexts are critically important for intervention success. Including an afterword by Professor Louise Potvin this book will appeal to researchers interested in population and public community health and epidemiology as well as health geography.
