Lesson 4: Cells and Energy

A. Cellular Respiration

1. All living things need energy to survive.
2. Cellular respiration is a series of chemical reactions that convert the energy in food molecules into a usable form of energy called ATP.
3. The first step of cellular respiration, called glycolysis, occurs in the cytoplasm of all cells.
4. During glycolysis glucose, a sugar, is broken into smaller molecules.
5. The second step of cellular respiration occurs in the mitochondria of eukaryotic cells. This step requires oxygen.
6. During the second step of cellular respiration, the smaller molecules made during glycolysis are broken down. Large amounts of usable energy, called ATP, are produced.
7. Water and carbon dioxide (CO₂) are two waste products that are given off during the second step of cellular respiration.

B. Fermentation

1. Eukaryotic and prokaryotic cells use fermentation to obtain energy from food when oxygen levels are low.
2. Fermentation occurs in a cell's cytoplasm.
3. Lactic-acid fermentation converts glucose into ATP and a waste product called lactic acid.
4. Some types of bacteria and yeasts make ATP during alcohol fermentation. This process produces ethanol and CO₂.

C. Photosynthesis

1. Plants and some unicellular organisms obtain energy from light.
2. Photosynthesis is a series of chemical reactions that convert light energy, water, and CO₂ into glucose and oxygen.
3. In plants, light energy is absorbed by pigments such as chlorophyll.
4. The chemical reactions of photosynthesis occur in chloroplasts, the organelles in plant cells that convert light energy into food.
5. Photosynthesis uses CO₂ that is released during cellular respiration to make food energy and release oxygen.
6. When an organism eats plant material, it takes in food energy. An organism's cells use oxygen released during photosynthesis.

Open-Ended Problems James Patrick Abulencia, Louis Theodore, 2015-03-27 This is a unique book with nearly 1000 problems and 50 case studies on open ended problems in every key topic in chemical engineering that helps to better prepare chemical engineers for the future The term open ended problem basically describes an approach to the solution of a problem and or situation for which there is not a unique solution The Introduction to the general subject of open ended problems is followed by 22 chapters each of which addresses a traditional chemical engineering or chemical engineering related topic Each of these chapters contain a brief overview of the subject matter of concern e.g thermodynamics which is followed by sample open ended problems that have been solved by the authors employing one of the many possible approaches to the solutions This is then followed by approximately 40-45 open ended problems with no solutions although many of the authors solutions are available for those who adopt the book for classroom or training purposes A reference section is included with the chapter s contents Term projects comprised of 12 additional chapter topics complement the presentation This book provides academic industrial and research personnel with the material that covers the principles and applications of open ended chemical engineering problems in a thorough and clear manner Upon completion of the text the reader should have acquired not only a working knowledge of the principles of chemical engineering but also and more importantly experience in solving open ended problems What many educators have learned is that the applications and implications of open ended problems are not only changing professions but also are moving so fast that many have not yet grasped their tremendous impact The book drives home that the open ended approach will revolutionize the way chemical engineers will need to operate in the future
