

$$U = -60\text{cm}$$

Focal length is given by  $\frac{1}{f} = \frac{1}{v} + \frac{1}{u}$

$$\begin{aligned}\frac{1}{f} &= \frac{1}{-30} + \frac{1}{-60} \\ &= \frac{-2-1}{60} \\ &= \frac{-3}{60}\end{aligned}$$

$$F = -20\text{cm}$$

3. Under which of the following conditions a concave mirror can form an image larger than the actual object?

- (a) When the object is kept at a distance equal to its radius of curvature
- (b) When object is kept at a distance less than its focal length
- (c) When object is placed between the focus and centre of curvature
- (d) When object is kept at a distance greater than its radius of curvature

Soln:

Answer is (c) When object is placed between the focus and centre of curvature

Explanation:

When object is placed between F and C an enlarged image is formed beyond C.

Emerging Technologies for the Classroom Chrystalla Mouza,Nancy Lavigne,2012-11-07 This book provides contemporary examples of the ways in which educators can use digital technologies to create effective learning environments that support improved learning and instruction These examples are guided by multiple conceptual and methodological traditions evolving from the learning sciences and instructional technology communities as well as other communities doing important work on learning technologies In particular the book provides examples of technology innovations and the ways in which educators can use them to foster deep understanding collaboration creativity invention and reflection Additional examples demonstrate the ways in which emerging mobile and networked technologies can help extend student learning beyond the confines of the classroom wall and support student directed learning and new media literacies Resources in Education ,2001-10

Johnstone Triangle Norman Reid,2021-01-18 Chemistry is often seen as a difficult subject to understand This book focusses on the triangle model that Alex H Johnstone developed in the early 1980s Originally conceived in the context of making chemistry more accessible to a wider range of learners the model has been applied in almost every area of education in chemistry at all stages of learning In looking at why chemistry is difficult there are two central questions Firstly does the problem relate to the nature of chemistry and secondly does it relate to the way humans gain understanding Both were found to be important and the answers to the two question were found to be connected The triangle model arose from sustained research into human learning The central finding from research is the critical role of working memory and the model rationalises so much evidence from chemistry education research as well as the repeated experiences of teachers of chemistry at all levels In order to understand chemistry it is essential to develop sound mental models of molecular reality It generates major implications for the way a chemistry curriculum should be constructed and the processes of teaching and learning in chemistry when the goal is focussed on understanding the key ideas Some of these implications are developed and pointers offered to more successful ways forward The power of the Johnstone Triangle lies in the way it offers clear directions for all involved in chemistry education It is hoped that this book will prove helpful to all involved in sharing the exciting story of the way humans have come to understand the molecular world one of the great examples of great human endeavour Biologist, 1987 Research in Education, 1969 Report CA Dept of Education, 1888 The Palgrave Handbook of Textbook Studies Eckhardt Fuchs, Annekatrin Bock, 2018-04-04 This volume examines the present status and future trends of textbook studies Cutting edge essays by leading experts and emerging scholars explore the field's theories, methodologies and topics with the goal of generating debate and providing new perspectives The Georg Eckert Institute's unique transdisciplinary focus on international textbook research has shaped this handbook which explores the history of the discipline, the production processes and contexts that influence textbooks, the concepts they incorporate, how this medium itself is received and future trends The book maps and discusses approaches based in cultural studies as well as in the social and educational sciences in addition to contemporary methodologies used in the field The book aims to become the central interdisciplinary reference for textbook researchers, students and educational practitioners Current Index to Journals in Education, 1994 The Journal of the Senate During the ...
