2.1 Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

Peat lands are special wetlands that play a very important role in ecology. A peat land, of approximately 5 000 years old, near Mufuang is almost destroyed because of excessive extraction of water from the nearby Molofo river. The water is extracted for human consumption.

Peat lands like the one near Malling is exceptional and play an important role in storing water as well as preventing climate changes.

Dr. Pat-Louis Drunding said that carbon that is "held" or "stored" by peat lands combats climate change because it decreases the amount of carbon in the atmosphere.

Peat lands trap about one third of the world's carbon. Approximately 50% of wetlands worldwide are peat lands. However in South Africa about 10% of the wetlands are peat lands.

Grundling explained that peat lands can hold about 1 000 times its own mass in water. This replenishes the water table and is the source that keeps streams flowing. The "sponge effect" of the peat also makes it possible to store water that is then released during the seasons.

Dr. Grunwald said that it might be too late to restore the peat land near Malling but it might be possible to restore some parts of it if more water is supplied to this peat land.

The result of this destruction is depletion of the water table. The habitat of numerous fish and bird species that lived in the canal bed was also destroyed.

Meyer, Carole J. Young, Brendan J. Bartlett, 2014-02-24 This unique text presents a systematic study of a proven method for increasing the memory and reading comprehension of older adults by using a program based on discourse processing The program facilitates the encoding and retrieval of information through a reading strategy plan utilizing top level structures in the text The authors of this volume provide student and teacher training manuals for the program as well as a review of the literature data tables and graphs an extensive bibliography and five 1 1 2 hour sessions to improve memory and reading comprehension Place, Not Race Sheryll Cashin, 2014-05-06 From a nationally recognized expert a fresh and original argument for bettering affirmative action Race based affirmative action had been declining as a factor in university admissions even before the recent spate of related cases arrived at the Supreme Court Since Ward Connerly kickstarted a state by state political mobilization against affirmative action in the mid 1990s the percentage of four year public colleges that consider racial or ethnic status in admissions has fallen from 60 percent to 35 percent Only 45 percent of private colleges still explicitly consider race with elite schools more likely to do so although they too have retreated For law professor and civil rights activist Sheryll Cashin this isn't entirely bad news because as she argues affirmative action as currently practiced does little to help disadvantaged people The truly disadvantaged black and brown children trapped in high poverty environs are not getting the quality schooling they need in part because backlash and wedge politics undermine any possibility for common sense public policies Using place instead of race in diversity programming she writes will better amend the structural disadvantages endured by many children of color while enhancing the possibility that we might one day move past the racial resentment that affirmative action engenders In Place Not Race Cashin reimagines affirmative action and champions place based policies arguing that college applicants who have thrived despite exposure to neighborhood or school poverty are deserving of special consideration Those blessed to have come of age in poverty free havens are not Sixty years since the historic decision we're undoubtedly far from meeting the promise of Brown v Board of Education but Cashin offers a new framework for true inclusion for the millions of children who live separate and unequal lives Her proposals include making standardized tests optional replacing merit based financial aid with need based financial aid and recruiting high achieving students from overlooked places among other steps that encourage cross racial alliances and social mobility A call for action toward the long overdue promise of equality Place Not Race persuasively shows how the social costs of racial preferences actually outweigh any of the marginal benefits when effective race neutral alternatives are available Country Life ,1959 Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists ,1995-09 The New York Times Index ,2008
