A deep sea diver notices that the intensity of light, I , below the surface of the ocean decreases with depth, d , according to the formula

$$I = k(L_0)^{-d}$$

where L_0 is expressed as a percentage, d is the depth in metres below the surface and k is a constant.

The intensity of light at the surface is 100 %.

(a) Calculate the value of k .

$$100 = k(L_0)^0$$

[2 marks]

(b) Find the intensity of light at a depth 25 m below the surface.

[2 marks]

To be able to see clearly, a diver needs the intensity of light to be at least 8 %.

(c) Using your graphic display calculator, find the greatest depth below the surface at which she can see clearly.

[2 marks]

The table below gives the intensity of light (correct to the nearest integer) at different depths.

Depth (d)	0	10	20	30	40
Intensity (I)	100	61	38	24	15

(d) Using this information draw the graph of I against d for $0 \leq d \leq 100$. Use a scale of 1 cm to represent 10 metres on the horizontal axis and 1 cm to represent 10 % on the vertical axis.

[4 marks]

Some sea creatures have adapted so they can see in low intensity light and cannot tolerate too much light.

on your graph the range of depths sea creatures could inhabit are between 5 % and 15 % of the light intensity at the surface.

Strategies in Research—Going Beyond Disciplinary Boundaries Santosh Dhar, Upinder Dhar, Nitu Katariya, 2023-04-17 Going beyond the disciplinary horizons is an emerging trend of research now a days It is becoming increasingly important for addressing society's most pressing needs Within the disciplinary framework the ability to solve problems through the generation of knowledge has traditionally been addressed from discipline specific perspective However it has become apparent that the research needed to address today's complex problems requires the expertise from multiple disciplines Trans disciplinary Interdisciplinary and Multidisciplinary contributions combined concepts and knowledge not only used by academicians and researchers but also other stakeholders in the civic society including representatives of the private sector public administrators and the public These contributions enable the cross fertilization of knowledge and experiences from diverse groups of people and contribute towards holistic vision of a subject as well as new explanatory theories Rather than being an end in itself this kind of research is a way of achieving innovative goals enriched understanding and a synergy of new methods Design of Sampling Plan for Exponential Distribution Under Neutrosophic Statistical Interval Method

Muhammad Aslam, The sampling plan using the classical statistics under the exponential distribution can be applied only when there are certainty and clearness and in observations and parameters But in practice it is not necessary that under some circumstances all the observations parameters are determined So we cannot analyze them using the classical statistics which provides results in the determined values The neutrosophic statistics which is the generation of classical statistics can be applied to the analysis when parameters observations are incomplete indeterminate and vague imprecise In this paper we will design originally a sampling plan for the exponential distribution under the neutrosophic interval statistical method The neutrosophic plan parameters of the proposed plan will be determined through the neutrosophic non linear problem The tables for various values of risk are presented for the use in the industrial An example from the automobiles manufacturing industry is given to explain for the exponential distribution under the neutrosophic interval statistical method Specimen
