The Transformation of Human Rights Fact-finding Philip Alston,Sarah Knuckey,2016 Fact finding is at the heart of human rights advocacy and is often at the center of international controversies about alleged government abuses In recent years human rights fact finding has greatly proliferated and become more sophisticated and complex while also being subjected to stronger scrutiny from governments Nevertheless despite the prominence of fact finding it remains strikingly under studied and under theorized Too little has been done to bring forth the assumptions methodologies and techniques of this rapidly developing field or to open human rights fact finding to critical and constructive scrutiny The Transformation of Human Rights Fact Finding offers a multidisciplinary approach to the study of fact finding with rigorous and critical analysis of the field of practice while providing a range of accounts of what actually happens It deepens the study and practice of human rights investigations and fosters fact finding as a discretely studied topic while mapping crucial transformations in the field The contributions to this book are the result of a major international conference organized by New York University Law School s Center for Human Rights and Global Justice Engaging the expertise and experience of the editors and contributing authors it offers a broad approach encompassing contemporary issues and analysis across the human rights spectrum in law international relations and critical theory This book addresses the major areas of human rights fact finding such as victim and witness issues fact finding for advocacy enforcement and litigation the role of interdisciplinary expertise and methodologies crowd sourcing social media and big data and international guidelines for fact finding The Politics of Coercion Neil Loughlin,2024-09-15 In The Politics of Coercion Neil Loughlin explains the persistence of Cambodia s authoritarian regime for more than four decades It provides a historically grounded investigation of the country s ruling coalition political elites many drawn from within the state s coercive apparatus who in coordination with state dependent tycoons have come to control Cambodia s politics and its economy Loughlin presents new empirical data foregrounding the coercive underpinnings of the modern Cambodian state and its party the Cambodian People's Party (CPP). The focus on coercion reflects the regime's conflict and postconflict evolution and extractive political economy as the ruling coalition failed to channel popular interests through its political institutions thus resorting either to low intensity forms of coercion such as intimidation and surveillance or to high intensity coercion such as violent crackdowns and extrajudicial killings. Through a critical reevaluation of the regime's origins and evolution in its relationship with citizens, The Politics of Coercion reconceptualizes the CPP to emphasize the obstacles structural, institutional and distributional to building a mass based clientelist or developmentally legitimate authoritarian party. Dangerous Allies Malcolm Fraser, Cain Roberts, 2016-04-12

Australia has always been reliant on great and powerful friends for its sense of national security and for direction on its foreign policy first on the British Empire and now on the United States. Australia has actively pursued a policy of strategic dependence believing that making a grand bargain with a powerful ally was the best policy to ensure its security and prosperity. Dangerous Allies examines Australia's history of strategic dependence and questions the continuation of this position. It argues that international circumstances in the world and in the Western Pacific especially now make such a policy highly questionable. Since the fall of the Soviet Union the United States has also changed dramatically making it less relevant to Australia and a less appropriate ally on which Australia should rely. Malcolm Fraser argues that Australia should adopt a much greater degree of independence in foreign policy and that we should no longer merely follow other nations into wars of no direct interest to Australia or Australia's security. He argues for an end to strategic dependence and for the timely establishment of a truly independent Australia. The Community of Nuchi Du Takara ("Life Is the Ultimate Treasure") in Postwar Okinawa Masamichi (Marro) Inoue, Masamichi S. Inoue, 2025

Explores the conflict between Okinawans and the post WWII US Japan military alliance through the concept of nuchi du takara. Terrorism and Transnational Security Threats in West Africa: Adebayo E. Adeyemi PhD, 2015-09-18

While it could be arguably stated that West Africa has achieved remarkable and sustainable progress in the areas of democratic governance and economic growth the subregion over the past few years has been challenged by terrorism and other transnational security threats. Innocent civilians are continuously killed, security operatives and providers of humanitarian assistance are targeted and properties and infrastructures are wantonly destroyed thus culminating in significant displacement of people and acute poverty. If these developments are not carefully and timely addressed they are capable of eroding progress so far recorded. It is against this background that this book examines the different manifestations of terrorism and related transnational security challenges in West Africa with a view to exploring the internal and external sources and drivers of instability, establishing the linkages between terrorism and transnational threats and reviewing the various steps taken in recent time to strengthen the subregions capacity to prevent and address the menace of terrorism and other security challenges and make necessary policy recommendations based on comprehensive best practices. Modernisation in EU-Russian Relations: Past, Present and Future Maxine David,Tatiana Romanova,2017-10-02 Written as EU Russia relations began their swift decline as a result of the Ukrainian crisis this book examines the nature of these two actors relationship in respect of their Partnership for Modernisation The contributing authors look at modernisation through different lenses applying varying methodologies delivering historical analysis economic analysis levels of analysis debate which brings along transnational transgovernmental and intergovernmental relations and interrelations between the EU and its member states discourse analysis new institutionalism as well as policy analysis The authors each identify the importance of modernisation for Russia demonstrating why despite the current state of relations between Moscow and Brussels modernisation remains relevant for EU Russian relations At the same time the plurality of the chapters shows the complexity of the relationship that will have to be taken into account in order to overcome the current crisis and construct sustainable and mutually beneficial relations
