Adviser's commentary

The World Selection portfolio rose during the quarter with the strongest returns coming in September after the Federal Reserve surprised the markets with no changes to their current quantitative easing program. The portfolio was led by European and Japanese equity funds. Emerging Market local bonds and private equity while government bonds, although still offering a positive return, was among the weaker sectors.

In the US, it was expected that by September there would at least be a small tapering of the Federal Reserve's monthly injection of $85bn into the economy. However, the current program was maintained which helped boost bond prices, keeping yields low and sent equities higher. The rally was also boosted by the withdrawal of Larry Summers as a candidate for the chairmanship of the central bank. He was perceived as more hawkish than other candidates and therefore more willing to end the current monthly program sooner. Equities did pull back somewhat towards the end of the month as the focus gradually moved towards the political gridlock over the debt ceiling.

The European region saw a reduction in event risk as economic data improved and the European Central Bank (ECB) kept an accommodative policy. In particular, growth figures for the region moved back into positive territory, albeit by a small amount (0.3%), while the ECB extended its stance of maintaining low interest rates. These added to the actions of the US central bank has improved investor confidence.

Asian markets also benefited from the Federal Reserve action to delay tapering of the monthly liquidity injections. In addition, concern over China's slowing growth eased with Q2 GDP at 7.5% and industrial production rising to 5.5% in August. Japanese markets were also higher with growth rising 3.8% and construction and real estate sectors getting an added boost from Tokyo winning the right to hold the 2020 Olympics.

We favour equities over bonds with a bias towards developed equity markets over Emerging markets while within bonds we favour high yield and investment grade corporate over government bonds. Within the alternative sector we favour property over alternative fund of funds and commodities.
