UNIT 3: CULTURAL PATTERNS AND PROCESSES

Cultural landscapes are combinations of physical features, agricultural and industrial practices, religious and linguistic characteristics, evidence of human occupation, and other components of culture (including traditional and modern architecture and land use patterns).

Attitudes toward ethnicity and gender, including the role of women in the workforce, ethnic neighborhoods, and religious communities and trends help shape the use of space in a given way.

- Cultural landscapes patterns
 - Built environment
 - Evidence of occupation (human history and cultural environment)
 - The built environment as the physical manifestation of the cultural structure
- Components of culture in the cultural landscape
 - Physical features (climate, terrain, soil, water, including the effect of water on agriculture and related activities)
 - Human features (the human use of water, agriculture, industry)
 - Cultural features (religion, politics, social, human history, including the built environment)
 - Language, ethnicity, social and religious communities within the cultural landscape
- Ethnic neighborhoods, trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people, and each group of people tends to reside in its own area, often the same group tends to reside in the same area

Language, ethnicity and ethnicity contribute to a sense of place, which is the global cultural landscape.

Language, ethnicity and religion are factors creating centrifugal and centripetal forces.

- Centrifugal forces that pull people apart
 - Ethnic, religious, linguistic, and cultural differences
 - Centrifugal forces that pull people together
 - Ethnic, religious, linguistic, and cultural similarities
 - Centrifugal forces that pull people together

Religion and language - including religious, linguistic, and ethnic differences - are types of differences.

Differences among people in a culture include social, economic, and political differences.

- Economic differences: people in a culture have different economic resources and needs
- Religious differences
 - Religious differences: people in a culture have different religious beliefs and practices
 - Religious differences: people in a culture have different religious beliefs and practices
 - Religious differences: people in a culture have different religious beliefs and practices
- Ethnic differences: people in a culture have different ethnic backgrounds and characteristics

Interactions between and among cultural traits and larger global forces can lead to new forms of cultural expression, for example, globalization and digital media.

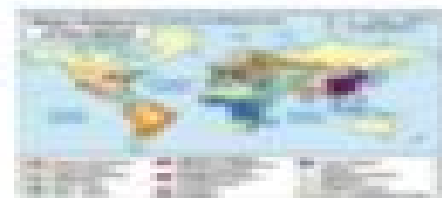

- Globalization: referring to the process by which economic, cultural, and social interactions become global
- Digital media: a type of media that is digital and can be accessed from anywhere

Globalization, immigration and trade helped to shape patterns and practices of culture.

- Globalization and immigration of people led to the diffusion of culture, including the spread of culture from one place to another
