UNIT 3: CULTURAL PATTERNS AND PROCESSES

Cultural landscapes are combinations of physical features, agricultural and industrial practices, religious and linguistic characteristics, evidence of human occupation, and other components of culture (including traditional and modern architecture and land use patterns).

Attitudes toward ethnicity and gender, including the role of women in the workforce, ethnic neighborhoods, and religious communities and trends help shape the use of space in a given way.

- Cultural landscapes patterns
 - Built environment
 - Evidence of human activity: human-induced cultural environment
 - The built environment on the physical environment by the actions of humans
- Components of culture in the cultural landscape
 - Physical features: natural features and built environment that reflect human activity
 - Agriculture and related practices
 - Religion, language, and evidence of human occupation, migration
 - Evidence of human activity: human-induced cultural environment
 - Evidence of human activity: human-induced cultural environment
- Ethnic neighborhoods, trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people, and trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people, and trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people.

Language, ethnicity and identity contribute to a sense of place, which is the global cultural landscape.

Language, ethnicity and religion are factors creating centrifugal and centripetal forces.

- Centrifugal forces that pull people apart
 - Ethnic neighborhoods, trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people, and trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people.
- Centripetal forces that pull people together
 - Ethnic neighborhoods, trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people, and trends that a place can be associated to different groups of people.

Language	Religion	Ethnicity
• Spanish: 45% of population	• Catholic: 65% of population	• Hispanic: 13% of population
• English: 35% of population	• Protestant: 25% of population	• White: 60% of population
• French: 10% of population	• Muslim: 10% of population	• Black: 13% of population
• German: 5% of population	• Jewish: 2% of population	• Asian: 5% of population
• Italian: 5% of population	• Hindu: 1% of population	• Native American: 1% of population

Religion and migration - including immigration, emigration, and transmigration - are types of diffusion.

Diffusion process by which a feature spreads across space.

- Expansion diffusion: spread of an idea through the physical movement of people from one place to another
- Relocation diffusion: spread of an idea from person to person, as people move from one place to another
- Contagious diffusion: rapid, widespread diffusion of a characteristic through the population
- Stimulus diffusion: spread of an underlying principle even though a characteristic that represents it is not adopted

Interactions between and among cultural traits and larger global forces can lead to new forms of cultural expression, for example, transnational and bicultural forms.

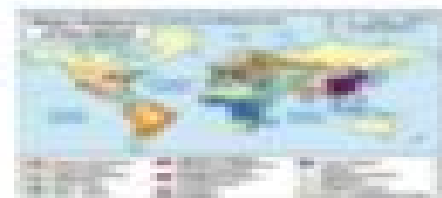

- Transnational: referring to the process by which elements of different cultures are combined to create a new culture
- Bicultural: referring to the process by which elements of different cultures are combined to create a new culture

Transnational, transnational and bicultural forms help to shape patterns and practices of culture.

- Transnational: referring to the process by which elements of different cultures are combined to create a new culture
- Bicultural: referring to the process by which elements of different cultures are combined to create a new culture

- Transnational: referring to the process by which elements of different cultures are combined to create a new culture
- Bicultural: referring to the process by which elements of different cultures are combined to create a new culture
