This book focuses on the transformation of accounting and auditing based on AI and Big Data. It not only provides a thorough and critical overview of the status quo and the reports surrounding these technologies but it also presents a future outlook on the ethical and normative implications concerning opportunities, risks, and limits. The book discusses topics such as future human-machine collaboration, cybernetic approaches to decision making, and ethical guidelines for good corporate governance of AI-based algorithms and Big Data in accounting and auditing. It clarifies the issues surrounding the digital transformation in this arena, delineates its boundaries, and highlights the essential issues and debates within and concerning this rapidly developing field. The authors develop a range of analytic approaches to the subject, both appreciative and sceptical, and synthesise new theoretical constructs that make better sense of human-machine collaborations in accounting and auditing. This book offers academics a variety of new research and theory building on digital accounting and auditing, from and for accounting and auditing scholars, economists, organisations, and management academics and political and philosophical thinkers. Also, as a landmark work in a new area of current policy interest, it will engage regulators and policy makers, reflective practitioners, and media commentators through its authoritative contributions, editorial framing, and discussion, and sector studies and cases.

Teaching Ethics Across the Management Curriculum, Volume III Kemi

Ogunyemi, 2016-08-10. Of those in management education who debate whether business ethics should be taught as a stand-alone course or in an embedded manner, most recommend combining both approaches for optimal results. This book provides unique insights into the experience of seasoned academics who embed business ethics in teaching management theory and practice. Its multidisciplinary approach enriches its content, since the insights of our colleagues from within their fields are invaluable. It therefore complements other business textbooks. After general themes, curriculum integration, adult learning, learner commitment, and generation Y classrooms, this volume covers ethics and responsibility in people management, team building, change management, operations management, business law, and digital marketing communications. The book provides a platform to share experiences of teaching ethical profitability. It contributes to resolving concerns experienced when faculty wish to incorporate ethics into their teaching but feel they lack preparation or ideas on how to do it. The chapters describe each discipline briefly, raise the typical ethical issues therein, and suggest teaching strategies and exercises or projects. The developing versus developed country perspectives sections may interest schools with high student diversity. The book also meets in-company training needs for attaining and sustaining an ethical culture.

Managerial Accounting Charles E.

Davis, Elizabeth Davis, 2011-08-09. Realizing that most students in an introductory managerial accounting course are not going to major in accounting, this book seeks to position managerial accounting in a broader context of business decision making. Pref.

Globalization and Social Responsibility Kiyemet Tunca Caliyurt, David Crowther, 2008-12-11.

Over the last decade, the question of the relationship between organisations and society has been subject to much debate, often of a critical nature. The decade has seen protests concerning the actions of organisations, exposures of corporate exploitation, and unfolding accounting scandals At the same time ethical behaviour and a concern for the environment have been shown to have a positive correlation with corporate performance The nature of corporate social responsibility is therefore a topical one for businesses and academics There are however many different perspectives upon what is meant by corporate social responsibility and how this might be applied within organisations This book explores some of these different perspectives based upon the experiences of different people in different parts of the world There has been much written about globalisation some of it positive and much of it negative It is a subject which arouses definite opinions Despite the fact that the word globalisation is part of the title of this book it is not our intention to contribute to this debate Instead we use the word globalisation in its original sense to represent the ubiquity of the concern for Corporate Social Responsibility CSR which is the subject matter of this book Specifically we are concerned with the social contract between an organisation and its stakeholders It is apparent that any actions which an organisation undertakes will have an effect not just upon itself but also upon the external environment within which that organisation resides In considering the effect of the organisation upon its external environment it must be recognised that this environment includes both the business environment in which the firm is operating the local societal environment in which the organisation is located and the wider global environment Effectively therefore there is a social contract between organizations and their stakeholders Recognition of the rights of all stakeholders and the duty of a business to be accountable in this wider context therefore has been largely a relatively recent phenomenon The economic view of accountability only to owners has only recently been subject to debate to any considerable extent In the current environment there is a need to debate this issue and its implications This book therefore recognises the international scope of the interest in corporate social responsibility both through the contributions made by the authors of the respective chapters who come from various parts of the world and also through the international importance of the perspectives offered by these contributors In doing so the various authors demonstrate that corporations are a part of society just as much as each of us is as a individual Furthermore they demonstrate that the issues and concerns are not local ones but are international in scope and concern us all The contributions to this book provide a representation of the range of concern for this relationship and the range of topics which fall within the subject matter of CSR Among the authors who have contributed to this book are representatives from every continent and from a wide range of disciplines The topics which are considered in the various chapters are equally diverse
