

JANUARY ... DOES IT BRING YOU JOY?

- 1 January is the time for renewal on many fronts. It's the time of the year to re-evaluate everything. If something or someone doesn't bring you joy, it's pretty pointless carrying on with it. If we want the best, we must do our best. We must keep our family space safe and secure so that we are thriving as a people and as a nation. 5
- 2 In order to live their best lives, people are spreading themselves thinner and thinner with multiple streams of income. In the process we earn more but live less, we lose our focus of what is important.
- 3 With social media, keeping up with other Instagrammers are having a devastating effect on self-perception. Everything appears to be real perfect, but the fabric of our society is frazzled. Use January to take stock and start navigating new ways of doing things. Instead of multiple streams of sole sessions, travel more, and connect with people and places that bring you joy. 10

English November 2013 Papers O Level:

English Studies in India Banibrata Mahanta, Rajesh Babu Sharma, 2018-11-03 This volume is a collection of scholarly papers that explore the complex issues concerning English Studies in the present Indian context. The discussions in this volume range from historical perspectives to classroom specific pedagogies from sociological and political hierarchies to the dynamics of intellectual development in the English language environment. Interrogating both policy and practice pertaining to English Studies in the context of Indian society, culture, history, literature and governance, the chapters seek to formulate contemporary perspectives to these debates and envision alternative possibilities. Since the introduction of English to India more than 2 centuries ago, the language has transmuted the very fabric of Indian society, culture, history, literature and governance. The idea of India cannot be conceived in its entirety without taking into consideration the epistemological role that English has played in its formation. The present globalized world order has added dimensions to English Studies which are radically different from those of India's colonial and postcolonial past. It is therefore imperative that the multitudinous shades and shadows of the discipline be re-examined with inputs drawn from the present context. This volume is for scholars and researchers of English literature and language studies, linguistics and culture studies and others interested in exploring new paradigms of engagement with the disciplinary formulation of English Studies in India.

English as a Lingua Franca in Wider Networking Paola Vettorel, 2014-08-27 In a constantly interconnected world, communication takes place beyond territorial boundaries in networks where English works as a lingua franca The volume explores how ELF is employed in internationally oriented personal blogs findings show how bloggers deploy an array of resources to their expressive and interactional aims combining global and local communicative practices Implications of findings in ELF and ELT terms are also discussed Standards of English in Higher Education Neil Murray,2016 A frank and critical appraisal of English language proficiency as a key issue in higher education today Daily Graphic Kingsley Inkoom,2014-09-03 Publishers, Readers and the Great War Vincent Trott,2017-10-05 Literature is at the heart of popular understandings of the First World War in Britain and has perpetuated a popular memory of the conflict centred on disillusionment horror and futility This book examines how and why literature has had this impact exploring the role played by authors publishers and readers in constructing the memory of the war since 1918 It demonstrates that publishers were as influential as authors in shaping perceptions of the conflict and it provides a detailed analysis of critical and popular responses to war books tracing the evolution of readers attitudes to the war between 1918 and 2014 By exploring the cultural legacy of the war from these two previously overlooked perspectives Vincent Trott offers fresh insights regarding the emergence of a collective memory of the First World War in Britain Drawing on a broad range of primary source material including publishers correspondence dust jackets adverts book reviews and diary entries and examining canonical authors such as Wilfred Owen Siegfried Sassoon and Vera Brittain alongside long forgotten texts and more recent autobiographical works by Harry Patch and Henry Allingham Publishers Readers and the Great War provides a rich and nuanced analysis of the climate within which First World War literature was written published and received since 1918 English in Business and Commerce Tamah Sherman,Jiri Nekvapil,2018-05-07 This volume fills an important gap in exploring English in the domains of business and commerce through the prism of sociolinguistics and the sociology of language as opposed to analyzing business genres or taking a linguodidactic approach It expands the regional coverage of English in Europe with several studies based in Central Europe and also considers contexts which interact with Europe even though they are physically outside of it Asia Africa It addresses English as just one of several languages at play in the ecology of the countries It focuses not only on the position of languages as declared in documents of various organizations that is language policy but also everyday linguistic practices as observed in business contexts that is interactions The studies are divided into three thematic areas ideologies and discourses on English in the business sphere the management of English in business and organizational contexts and English and other languages on local and international labor markets It will be of interest to readers concerned with multilingualism in the economic sphere and the workplace and the interplay between macro and micro levels during the management of communication in organizations State Formation After Civil War Derek M Powell,2016-08-05 State formation after civil war offers a new model for studying the formation of the state in a national peace transition as an integrated national phenomenon Current models of peacebuilding and state building limit that possibility reproducing a fragmented selective view of this complex reality Placing too much emphasis on state building as design they place too little on understanding state formation as unplanned historical process The dominant focus on national institutions also ignores the role that cities and civic polities have played in constituting the modern state Mining ideas from many disciplines and evidence from 19 peace processes including South Africa the book argues that the starting point for building a systematic theory is to explain a distinct pattern to state formation that can be observed in practice Despite their conflicts people in fragile societies bargain terms for peaceful coexistence they make attempts to constitute the right to rule as valid state authority in circumstances prone to conflict over which they have imperfect influence not control Though the kind of institutions created will differ with context how rules for state authority are institutionalized follows a consistent basic pattern That pattern defines state formation in peace transitions as both a unified if contingent field of normative practice and an object of comparative study Where the national centric models see local government as a matter belonging to policy on decentralization for later in the reconstruction phase the book uncovers a distinct local government dimension to peace transitions A civic dimension to national conflicts that must be explained incipient or proto local authorities that emerge even during civil war in peace making after state collapse the fact that it is common for peace agreements and constitutions to include rules for local authority for local elections to be held as part of broader democratization and for laws to be enacted to establish local government as part of peace compacts The book develops the concept of local peace transition to explain the distinctive constitutive role of this local dimension in peace making and state formation This path breaking book will be of compelling interest to practitioners scholars and students of comparative constitutional studies international law peace building and state building
