Jungheim, Saskia Fischer, Jessica Cooperman, Caroline Emig, Shai Ginsburg, 2023-03-22 The sea and maritime spaces have long been neglected in the field of Jewish studies despite their relevance in the context of Jewish religious texts and historical narratives The images of Noah’s ark, King Solomon’s maritime activities or the miracle of the parting of the Red Sea immediately come into mind however only illustrate a few aspects of Jewish maritime activities Consequently the relations of Jews and the sea has to be seen in a much broader spatial and temporal framework in order to understand the overall importance of maritime spaces in Jewish history and culture Almost sixty years after Samuel Tolkowsky’s pivotal study on maritime Jewish history and culture and the publication of his book They Took to the Sea in 1964 this volume of PaRDeS seeks to follow these ideas revisit Jewish history and culture from different maritime perspectives and shed new light on current research in the field which brings together Jewish and maritime studies The articles in this volume therefore reflect a wide range of topics and illustrate how maritime perspectives can enrich our understanding of Jewish history and culture and its entanglement with the sea especially in modern times They study different spaces and examine their embedded narratives and functions They follow in one way or another the discussions which evolved in the last decades focused on the importance of spatial dimensions and opened up possibilities for studying the production and construction of spaces their influences on cultural practices and ideas as well as structures and changes of social processes By taking these debates into account the articles offer new insights into Jewish history and culture by taking us out to sea and inviting us to revisit Jewish history and culture from different maritime perspectives “Through Their Eyes...” – Biographical Research in the Digital Age Björn Siegel, Andrea Sinn, Jay Howard Geller, Margarete Myers Feinstein, Nils Roemer, Sylwia Papier, Tabea Henn, Gerald Lamprecht, Marco Jandl, Andreas Heusler, Maximilian Strnad, Renate Evers, Seth Bernstein, Richard I. Cohen, Elena Hoffenberg, Morgan Morales, Avner Ofrath, Thomas Varkonyi, Anastasiia Strakhova, 2025-05-06 PaRDeS Journal of the Association for Jewish Studies in Germany 30 Biographical studies have always been central to the field of history but the relevance of biographical research seems to have increased in recent years calling for a deeper analytical study and a critical re evaluation of the newly developing biographical turn Especially in an increasingly digitized world including in academia life stories seem to offer new perspectives through which personal narratives cultural phenomena or literary works can be examined understood and presented Furthermore these sources raise new questions about the interests and perspectives of the author s the reliability and subjectivity of the individual as well as the constructiveness and authenticity of associated texts and sources While these questions might be universal they are inherent in Jewish history and culture The worldwide spread of digitization offers answers to some of these questions but also leads to new demands and difficulties in the study of biographies Therefore in the digital age biographical research is a complex but promising method for expanding knowledge about phenomena such as Jewish forced migration the Holocaust the development of diasporas exiles and transnational networks but also questions of acculturation representation remembrance and the formation of memory

Schulz, Susanne Weigand, Elana Shapira, Sean Sidky, Cheuck Him Ryan Sun, Hava Tirosh-Samuelson, Michelle Tusan, Björn Siegel, 2024-03-22 In the aftermath of the Shoah and the ostensible triumph of nationalism it became common in historiography to relegate Jews to the position of the eternal other in a series of binaries Christian Jewish Gentile Jewish European Jewish non Jewish Jewish and so forth For the longest time these binaries remained characteristic of Jewish historiography including in the Central European context Assuming instead as the more recent approaches in Habsburg studies do that pluriculturalism was the basis of common experience in formerly Habsburg Central Europe and accepting that no single majority culture existed but rather hegemonies were imposed in certain contexts then the often used binaries are misleading and conceal the complex and sometimes even paradoxical conditions that shaped

Jewish life in the region before the Shoah The very complexity of Habsburg Central Europe both in synchronic and diachronic perspective precludes any singular historical narrative of Habsburg Jewry and it is not the intention of this volume to offer an overview of Habsburg Jewish history The selected articles in this volume illustrate instead how important it is to reevaluate categories deconstruct historical narratives and reconceptualize implemented approaches in specific geographic temporal and cultural contexts in order to gain a better understanding of the complex and pluricultural history of the Habsburg Empire and the region as a whole

Sally Crawford, Katharina Ulmschneider, Jaś Elsner, 2017-03-02 In the opening decades of the twentieth century Germany was at the cutting edge of arts and humanities scholarship across Europe However when many of its key thinkers leaders in their fields in classics philosophy archaeology art history and oriental studies were forced to flee to England following the rise of the Nazi regime Germany's loss became Oxford's gain From the mid 1930s onwards Oxford could accurately be described as an ark of knowledge of western civilization a place where ideas about art culture and history could be rescued developed and disseminated freely The city's history as a place of refuge for scientists who were victims of Nazi oppression is by now familiar but the story of its role as a sanctuary for cultural heritage though no less important has received much less attention In this volume the impact of Oxford as a shelter a meeting point and a centre of thought in the arts and humanities specifically is addressed by looking both at those who sought refuge there and stayed and those whose lives intersected with Oxford at crucial moments before and during the war Although not every great refugee can be discussed in detail in this volume this study offers an introduction to the unique conjunction of place people and time that shaped Western intellectual history exploring how the meeting of minds enabled by libraries publishing houses and the University allowed Oxford's refugee scholars to have a profound and lasting impact on the development of British culture. Drawing on oral histories, previously unpublished letters, and archives, it illuminates and interweaves both personal and global histories to demonstrate how, for a short period during the war, Oxford brought together some of the greatest minds of the age to become the custodians of a great European civilization.
