Exclusion and Inclusion in International Migration: Power, Resistance and Identity Armağan Teke Lloyd, 2019-04-30 People on the move face new barriers in a globalizing world Some of these barriers are related with the rise of an increasingly security oriented approach towards international migrants Notwithstanding the forces of globalization states have maintained their monopoly power over whom to admit and whom to deny within their borders In other words they remain the sovereign authority regulating the entry and exit of people However in recent years a number of states have singled out international immigration as the greatest political and social threat to their cultural and national security The securitization of immigration is founded upon the premise that the international movement of people represents an exceptional risk for the survival of the nation and this is often associated with terrorism instability and criminality The securitization of immigration is also based on the idea that the traditional authority vested in states to regulate immigration is somehow insufficient and needs to be enhanced These assumptions correspond with a real policy shift in some countries such as the United States where the government is planning to spend approximately 23 Billion Dollars on border security and immigration enforcement in 2019 alone This edited volume is an exploration of the global landscapes inhabited by refugees and labour migrants although the focus is largely on the former Despite the fact that most of the empirical studies are drawn from within Europe the book also includes research on Nepal Australia the Middle East and Japan in order to reveal the truly global dimensions of migration and the regimes governing this

Globalization and Urbanization James H. Spencer, 2014-06-26 During the past decade the world reached the point of becoming more urban than not as the majority of people on the planet now live not in small towns or villages but in provincial national and global cities Scholars have long been fascinated by so called global cities world cities and the urban engines of the global economy James H Spencer argues however that such an emphasis misses the central fact that urbanization goes well beyond the usual suspects of New York Tokyo London and Shanghai The author charts urbanization across the Global South and North resulting in what he describes as a planetary global urban ecosystem This concept that challenges us to realize that in daily life their similar physical and social ecosystems that make cities more understandable to each other than to their own rural hinterlands Spencer s vivid case studies of Addis Ababa Ho Chi Minh City Honolulu and New York draw out the commonalities of our intertwined built and social environments and how they express a shared humanity across continents and cultures

The Life of Permafrost Pey-Yi Chu, 2020-12-07 In the Anthropocene the thawing of frozen earth due to global warming has drawn worldwide attention to permafrost Contemporary scientists define permafrost as ground that maintains a negative temperature for at least two years But where did this particular conception of permafrost originate and what alternatives existed The Life of Permafrost provides an intellectual history of permafrost placing the phenomenon squarely in the political social and material context of Russian and Soviet science Pey Yi Chu shows that understandings of frozen earth were shaped by two key experiences in the Russian Empire and the Soviet Union On one hand the colonization and industrialization of Siberia nourished an engineering perspective on frozen earth that viewed the phenomenon as an aggregate physical structure ground On the other a Russian and Soviet tradition of systems thinking encouraged approaching frozen earth as a process condition and space tied to planetary exchanges of energy and matter Aided by the US militarization of the Arctic during the Cold War the engineering view of frozen earth as an obstacle to construction became dominant The Life of Permafrost tells the fascinating story of how permafrost came to acquire life as Russian and Soviet scientists studied named and defined it The United States and the End of British Colonial Rule in Africa, 1941-1968 James P. Technological Innovation in Legacy Sectors William B. Bonvillian, Charles Weiss, 2015-08-18 The American economy faces two deep problems expanding innovation and raising the rate of quality job creation Both have roots in a neglected problem the resistance of Legacy economic sectors to innovation While the U S has focused its policies on breakthrough innovations to create new economic frontiers like information technology and biotechnology most of its economy is locked into Legacy sectors defended by technological economic political social paradigms that block competition from disruptive innovations that could challenge their models Americans like to build technology covered wagons and take them out west to open new innovation frontiers we don t head our wagons back east to bring innovation to our Legacy sectors By failing to do so the economy misses a major opportunity for innovation which is the bedrock of U S competitiveness and its standard of living

Technological Innovation in Legacy Sectors uses a new unifying conceptual framework to identify the shared features underlying structural obstacles to innovation in major Legacy sectors energy air and auto transport the electric power grid buildings manufacturing agriculture health care delivery and higher education and develops approaches to understand and transform them It finds both strengths and obstacles to innovation in the national innovation environments a new concept that combines the innovation system and the broader innovation context for a group of Asian and European economies Manufacturing is a major Legacy sector that presents a particular challenge because it is a critical stage in the innovation process By increasingly offshoring production the U S is losing important parts of its innovation capacity Innovate here produce here where the U S took all the gains of its strong innovation system at every stage is being replaced by innovate here produce there which threatens to lead to produce there innovate there To bring innovation to Legacy sectors authors William Bonvillian and Charles Weiss recommend that policymakers focus on all stages of innovation from research through implementation They should fill institutional gaps in the innovation system and take measures to address structural obstacles to needed disruptive innovations In the specific case of advanced manufacturing the production ecosystem can be recreated to reverse jobless innovation and add manufacturing led innovation to the U S s still strong research oriented innovation system
