Mathematics A. Cemal Eringen, 2013-10-22 Continuum Physics Volume 1 Mathematics is a collection of papers that discusses certain selected mathematical methods used in the study of continuum physics Papers in this collection deal with developments in mathematics in continuum physics and its applications such as group theory functional analysis theory of invariants and stochastic processes Part I explains tensor analysis including the geometry of subspaces and the geometry of Finsler Part II discusses group theory which also covers lattices morphisms and crystallographic groups Part III reviews the theory of invariants that includes isotropy transverse isotropy and nonpolynomial invariants Part IV explains functional analysis that also includes set theory vector spaces topological spaces and topological vector spaces Part V deals with analytic function theory and covers topics such as Cauchy's theorem the residue theorem and the Plemelj formulas Part VI reviews the elements of stochastic processes and cites some examples where stochastic theory is applied This book can be valuable for researchers and scientists involved in nuclear physicists students and academicians in the field of advanced physics Applied Mechanics Reviews, 1973

Mathematical Models And Methods For Smart Materials Mauro Fabrizio, Barbara Lazzari, Angelo Morro, 2002-12-16 This book contains the papers presented at the conference on Mathematical Models and Methods for Smart Materials held in Italy in 2001 The papers are divided into four parts Methods in Materials Science deals mainly with mathematical techniques for the investigation of physical systems such as liquid crystals materials with internal variables amorphous materials and thermoelastic materials Also techniques are exhibited for the analysis of stability and controllability of classical models of continuum mechanics and of dynamical systems Modelling of Smart Materials is devoted to models of superfluids superconductors materials with memory nonlinear elastic solids and damaged materials In the elaboration of the models thermodynamic aspects play a central role in the characterization of the constitutive properties Well Posedness in Materials with Memory deals with existence uniqueness and stability for the solution of problems most often expressed by integrodifferential equations which involve materials with fading memory Also attention is given to exponential decay in viscoelasticity inverse problems in heat conduction with memory and automatic control for parabolic equations Analytic Problems in Phase Transitions discusses nonlinear partial differential equations associated with phase transitions and hysteresis possibly involving fading memory effects Particular applications are developed for the phase field model with memory the Stefan problem with a Cattaneo type equation the hysteresis in thermo visco plasticity and the solid solid phase transition
