Reforming New Orleans

Peter F. Burns, Matthew O. Thomas, 2015-12-18 Hurricane Katrina devastated New Orleans in 2005 but in the subsequent ten years the city has demonstrated both remarkable resilience and frustrating stagnation In Reforming New Orleans Peter F. Burns and Matthew O. Thomas chart the city's recovery and assess how successfully officials at the local state and federal levels transformed the Big Easy in the wake of disaster Focusing on reforms in four key sectors of urban governance economic development education housing and law enforcement both before and after Katrina they find lessons for cities hit by sudden shocks such as natural disasters or large scale financial crises One of their key insights is that post disaster recovery tends to limit local control State and federal officials national foundations and local actors excluded by pre Katrina politics used their resources and authority to displace entrenched local interests and implement a public agenda focused on institutional and governmental change Burns and Thomas also make clear reform in New Orleans was already underway before Katrina hit but that it had focused largely on upper and middle class residents a trend that accelerated after the storm The market centered nature of the reforms have ensured that they largely benefited city and regional elites while not significantly aiding the city's working class and impoverished populations Thus reform has come at a cost and that cost in the long term could undermine the political gains of the post Katrina era

Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies, 2015 Fictions of Integration Naomi Lesley, 2017-03-03 This book examines how children's and young adult literature addresses and interrogates the legacies of American school desegregation Such literature narrates not only the famous battles to implement desegregation in the South in places like

Little Rock Arkansas but also more insidious and less visible legacies such as re segregation within schools through the mechanism of disability diagnosis Novelizations of children s experiences with school desegregation comment upon the politics of getting African American children access to white schools but more than this as school stories they also comment upon how structural racism operates in the classroom and mutates over the course of decades through the pedagogical practices depicted in literature for young readers Lesley combines approaches from critical race theory disability studies and educational philosophy in order to investigate how the educational market simultaneously constrains how racism in schools can be presented to young readers and also provides channels for radical critiques of pedagogy and visions of alternative systems The volume examines a range of titles from novels that directly engage the Brown v Board of Education decision such as Sharon Draper s Fire From the Rock and Dorothy Sterling s Mary Jane to novels that engage less obvious legacies of desegregation such as Cynthia Voigt s Dacey s Song Sharon Flake s Pinned Virginia Hamilton s The Planet of Junior Brown and Louis Sachar s Holes This book will be of interest to scholars of American studies children s literature and educational philosophy and history
