

GUIDE TO STANDARD PAPER SIZES

Scale: 1" = 1' - 0"

US ANSI

ANSI (American National Standards Institute) paper sizes are proportional to the common letter size sheet.

ARCHITECTURAL

Architectural sheet sizes are based upon a 36" x 48" sheet, and proportionally smaller sizes. In addition to the above, the 24" x 42" sheet size is commonly accepted as a standard size.

METRIC

The metric "A" series is based upon an A0 sheet being one square metre in area. Although the B1 sheet is in the "B" series, it has come to be commonly accepted.

In order to have less changing of paper rolls in our Co-digital system we print metric sizes on ANSI paper, e.g. an A0 print would be centered on a 34" high sheet.

Optimizing Massive MIMO Hei Victor Cheng,2018-04-11 The past decades have seen a rapid growth of mobile data traffic both in terms of connected devices and data rate To satisfy the evergrowing data traffic demand in wireless communication systems the current cellular systems have to be redesigned to increase both spectral efficiency and energy efficiency Massive MIMO Multiple Input Multiple Output is one solution that satisfies both requirements In massive MIMO systems hundreds of antennas are employed at the base station to provide service to many users at the same time and frequency This enables the system to serve the users with uniformly good quality of service simultaneously with low cost hardware and without using extra bandwidth and energy To achieve this proper resource allocation is needed Among the available resources transmit power beamforming are the most important degrees of freedom to control the spectral efficiency and energy efficiency Due to the use of excessive number of antennas and low end hardware at the base station new aspects of power allocation and beamforming compared to current systems arise In the first part of the thesis new uplink power allocation schemes that based on long term channel statistics is proposed Since quality of the channel estimates is crucial in massive MIMO in addition to data power allocation joint power allocation that includes the pilot power as additional variable should be considered Therefore a new framework for power allocation that matches practical systems is developed as the methods developed in the literature cannot be applied directly to massive MIMO systems Simulation results confirm the advantages brought by the proposed new framework In the second part we introduce a new approach to solve the joint precoding and power allocation for different objective in downlink scenarios by a combination of random matrix theory and optimization theory The new approach results in a simplified problem that though non convex obeys a simple separable structure Simulation results showed that the proposed scheme provides large gains over heuristic solutions when the number of users in the cell is large which is suitable for applying in massive MIMO systems In the third part we investigate the effects of using low end amplifiers at the base stations The non linear behavior of power consumption in these amplifiers changes the power consumption model at the base station thereby changes the power allocation and beamforming design Different scenarios are investigated and results show that a certain number of antennas can be turned off in some scenarios In the last part we consider the use of non orthogonal multiple access NOMA inside massive MIMO systems in practical scenarios where channel state information CSI is acquired through pilot signaling Achievable rate analysis is carried out for different pilot signaling schemes including both uplink and downlink pilots Numerical results show that when downlink CSI is available at the users our proposed NOMA scheme outperforms orthogonal schemes However with more groups of users present in the cell it is preferable to use multi user beamforming instead of NOMA

The Cult of Saints in Late Antiquity and the Early Middle Ages James Howard-Johnston,Paul Antony Hayward,2000-01-07 This book contains eleven essays prefaced by a general introduction on a set of related themes the characteristic traits and diverse functions of holy men the fashioning of saints out of a small minority of holy men and a number of other individuals of high social status but with more dubious spiritual credentials the literary processes involved in the construction of hagiographical texts the role of hagiography in the creation and diffusion of cults and the worldly interests and other purposes which were served by hagiographical texts and the cults which they propagated These themes are explored across a wide range of social and cultural milieux extending from the late antique east Mediterranean through the early medieval Frankish world and Byzantium to Russia and Islam in the high middle ages The work of Peter Brown in particular his article The Rise and Function of the Holy Man in Late Antiquity first published in 1971 forms a constant point of reference acknowledged by the contributors as having irradiated the whole field with fresh provocative and illuminating ideas
