Fundamental Issues in Defense Training and Simulation George Galanis, Robert Sottolare, 2017-05-15 Defense forces have always invested a great deal of their resources in training. In recent times, changes in the complexity and intensity of operations have reaffirmed the importance of ensuring that warfighters are adequately prepared for the environments in which they are required to work. The emergence of new operational drivers such as asymmetric threats, urban operations, joint and coalition operations, and the widespread use of military communications and information technology networks has highlighted the importance of providing warfighters with the competencies required to act in a coordinated, adaptable fashion and to make effective decisions in environments characterized by large amounts of sometimes ambiguous information. While investment in new technologies can make available new opportunities for action, it is only through effective training that personnel can be made ready to apply their tools in the most decisive and discriminating fashion. There are many factors which can have an impact on the efficacy of training, and many issues to consider when designing and implementing training strategies. These issues are often complex and nuanced, and in order to grasp them fully, a significant investment of time and energy is required. However, the requirement to respond quickly to ever-changing technology, a high operational tempo, and minimal staffing may preclude many in today's defense forces from seeking out all such resources on their own. This edited collection provides brief, easy-to-understand summaries of the key issues in defense training and simulation, as well as guidance for further reading. It consists of a collection of short essays, each of which addresses a fundamental issue in defense training and simulation, and features an up-to-date reference list to enable the reader to undertake further investigation of the issues addressed. In essence, this book provides the optimum starting point or first resource for readers to come to terms with the important issues associated with defense training and simulation. The contributions are written by leading scholars from military research institutions in the US, UK, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, as well as selected researchers from academic and private sector research institutions.

Whatever Happened to Inclusion? Phil Smith, 2010 Law policy and practice in the United States has long held that students with disabilities including those with intellectual disabilities have the right to a free and appropriate public education in a non restrictive environment Yet very few of these students are fully included in general education classrooms Educational systems use loopholes to segregate students universities regularly fail to train teachers to include students and state regulators fail to provide the necessary leadership and funding to implement policies of inclusion Whatever Happened to Inclusion reports on the inclusion of students with intellectual disabilities from national and state perspectives outlining the abject failure of schools to provide basic educational rights to students with significant disabilities in America The book then describes the changes that must be made in teacher preparation programs policy funding and local schools to make the inclusion of students with intellectual disabilities a reality English-language Pedagogies for a Northeast Asian Context Dimitrios Michael Hadzantonis,2013 This book investigates from a sociocultural linguistic and pedagogical perspective the conceptual and pragmatic frameworks that characterize secondary language learning in a Northeast Asian context Hadzantonis contextualizes these salient domains through an engagement with social and cultural themes such as the familial political as well as cultural commodities and socioeducational structures In this way the text employs tools such as transnational theory and performativity and develops a model that contributes to the resolution of one of the greatest economic issues of the time that of ineffective secondary language learning

Cougar Maurice Hornocker, Sharon Negri, 2009-12-15 The cougar is one of the most beautiful enigmatic and majestic animals in the Americas Eliciting reverence for its grace and independent nature it also triggers fear when it comes into contact with people pets and livestock or competes for hunters game Mystery myth and misunderstanding surround this remarkable creature The cougar s range once extended from northern Canada to the tip of South America and from the Pacific to the Atlantic making it the most widespread animal in the western hemisphere But overhunting and loss of habitat vastly reduced cougar numbers by the early twentieth century across much of its historical range and today the cougar faces numerous threats as burgeoning human development encroaches on its remaining habitat When Maurice Hornocker began the first long term study of cougars in the Idaho wilderness in 1964 little was known about this large cat Its secretive nature and rarity in the landscape made it difficult to study But his groundbreaking research yielded major insights and was the prelude to further research on this controversial species The capstone to Hornocker s long career studying big cats Cougar is a powerful and practical resource for scientists conservationists and anyone with an interest in large carnivores He and conservationist Sharon Negri bring together the diverse perspectives of twenty two distinguished scientists to provide the fullest account of the cougar s ecology behavior and genetics its role as a top predator and its conservation needs This compilation of recent findings stunning photographs and firsthand accounts of field research unravels the mysteries of this magnificent animal and emphasizes its importance in healthy ecosystem processes and in our lives
