SETTLEMENT GEOGRAPHY

2.1 How site and situation affect the location of rural settlements

PHYSICAL FACTORS:

- ✓ Early settlements develop around a subsistence farming
- ✓ Choice of site is linked to physical aspects of site

1. Availability of fresh water supply

2. Farming factors

Fertile and arable land or land that provides good grazing for livestock

Land that are flat or gentle are also preferred.

3. Availability of building material and energy resources

Stone, clay, mud, grass and wood were used to build houses. Burning of wood was used as a source for heating and cooking.

4. Positive effects of microclimate

Southern hemisphere – settle on north-facing slopes: direct sunshine, heat and light.

Hilly areas – settlements on warmer inversion layer

Not settlements in hill tops or valley floors: low temperature specially at night.

ECONOMIC FACTORS

- ✓ Fertile, well-drained soil and grazing land attracts commercial farming settlements.
- ✓ Natural harbour, close to productive fishing grounds leads to the development of settlements.

The Shale Dilemma Shanti Gamper-Rabindran, 2017-11-30 The US shale boom and efforts by other countries to exploit their shale resources could reshape energy and environmental landscapes across the world But how might those landscapes change Will countries with significant physical reserves try to exploit them Will they protect or harm local communities and the global climate Will the benefits be shared or retained by powerful interests And how will these decisions be made The Shale Dilemma brings together experts working at the forefront of shale gas issues on four continents to explain how countries reach their decisions on shale development Using a common analytical framework the authors identify both local factors and transnational patterns in the decision making process Eight case studies reveal the trade offs each country makes as it decides whether to pursue delay or block development Those outcomes in turn reflect the nature of a country's political process and the power of interest groups on both sides of the issue The contributors also ask whether the economic arguments made by the shale industry and its government supporters have overshadowed the concerns of local communities for information on the effects of shale operations and for tax policies and regulations to ensure broad based economic development and environmental protection As an informative and even handed account The Shale Dilemma recommends practical steps to help countries reach better more transparent and more far sighted decisions Multidisciplinary

Regional-National Economic Problem Philip McCann, 2016-03-10 In recent years the United Kingdom has become a more and more divided society with inequality between the regions as marked as it has ever been In a landmark analysis of the current state of Britain s regional development Philip McCann utilises current statistics examines historical trends and makes pertinent international comparisons to assess the state of the nation The UK Regional National Economic Problem brings attention to the highly centralised top down governance structure that the UK deploys and demonstrates that it is less than ideally placed to rectify these inequalities The North South divide in the UK has never been greater and the rising inequalities are evident in almost all aspects of the economy including productivity incomes employment status and wealth Whilst the traditional economic dominance of London and its hinterland has continued along with relative resilience in the South West of England and Scotland in contrast the Midlands the North of England Northern Ireland and Wales lag behind by most measures of prosperity This inequality is greatly limiting national economic performance and the fact that Britain has a below average standard of living by European and OECD terms has been ignored The UK s economic and governance inequality is unlikely to be fundamentally rebalanced by the current governance and connectivity trends although this definitive study suggests that some areas of improvement are possible if they are well implemented This pivotal analysis is essential reading for postgraduate students in economics and urban studies as well as researchers and policy makers in local and central government

Language Development and Social Integration of Students with English as an Additional Language Michael Evans, Claudia Schneider, Madeleine Arnot, Linda Fisher, Karen Forbes, Yongcan Liu, Oakleigh Welply, 2020-07-16 Given the current context of the experience of migration on schools in England and Europe and the competing policies and approaches to social integration in schools there is a need to understand the connection between language development and social integration as a basis for promoting appropriate policies and practices This volume explores the complex relationship between language education and the social integration of newcomer migrant children in England through an in depth analysis of case studies from schools in the East of England The authors set this evidence against the background of policy debates in the wider international setting including a critical discussion of assumptions underlying national narratives of mainstreaming and assimilation In the light of an absence of national guidelines for appropriate practice in schools the authors outline a model of inclusive pedagogy for English as an additional language EAL and a framework of home school communication to promote effective EAL parental engagement in schools
