Cross Border Security in the Southern African Region

Inocent Moyo, 2024-07-29 This book provides a sophisticated analysis of cross border challenges and problems in the southern African region It advances explanations that transcend the state centric narrative that has nationalised cross border security It provides insights from non state actors such as informal cross border traders ICBTs informal cross border transporters undocumented migrants and cross border communities It argues that security needs to be understood beyond a state centric paradigm by focusing on the political economic environmental and societal threats at macro meso and micro levels The book suggests that at the core of cross border security challenges in the Southern African region is a post colonial governmentality This drives the nationalisation of cross border security as though it is the only security leading to nation states in turn depoliticising and invisibilising the security and livelihoods of ordinary people even when nation states claim to be protecting the same The book will be a useful resource for students scholars and researchers of African Studies Border Studies Human Geography Migration Studies Development Studies International Studies International Relations Political Science and Security Studies

Modelling urban spatial change: a review of international and South African modelling initiatives

Chris Wray, 2013-08-30 Urban growth and land use change models have the potential to become important tools for urban spatial planning and management Before embarking on any modelling however GCRO felt it was important to take note of and critically assess lessons to be learnt from international experience and scholarship on spatial modelling as well as a number of South African experiments that model future urban development In 2012 GCRO initiated preliminary research into current international and South African modelling trends through a desktop study and telephone email and personal interviews This Occasional paper sets out to investigate what urban spatial change modelling research is currently being undertaken internationally and within South Africa At the international level urban modelling research since 2000 is reviewed according to five main categories land use transportation LUT cellular automata urban system dynamics agent based models ABMs and spatial economics econometric models SE EMs Within South Africa urban modelling initiatives are categorised differently and include a broader range of urban modelling techniques Typologies used include provincial government modelling initiatives in Gauteng municipal government modelling initiatives other government funded modelling research and academic modelling research The various modelling initiatives described are by no means a comprehensive review of all urban spatial change modelling projects in South Africa but provide a broad indication of the types of urban spatial change modelling underway Importantly the models may form the basis for more accurate and sophisticated urban modelling projects in the future The paper concludes by identifying key urban modelling opportunities and challenges for short to long term planning in the GCR and South Africa Social Science Abstracts ,1933 Tourism, Change and the Global South Jarkko

Saarinén, Jayne M. Rogerson, 2021-06-16 This significant volume is the first to focus on both the changing nature of tourism and the capacity of tourism to effect change especially in the Global South Geographically this changing nature of tourism is based on the transforming relationships between demand supply and location While this is nothing new in tourism recent decades have intensified the changing characteristics of global tourism From another perspective tourism represents a change and nowadays many localities and regions aim to use tourism as a tool for positive change i.e. development However this has turned out to be a challenging task in practice especially in the Global South context where the relationship between tourism growth and local development has often been controversial This book looks at a host of critical concepts in one volume such as growth and development adaptation and resilience sustainability and responsibility governance and planning and heritage and destination management strategies By understanding the drivers of change this book sheds new insight into the promise and role of sustainability and responsibility in tourism development This book will be of great interest to all upper level students academics and researchers in the fields of Tourism Geography and Cultural and Heritage studies
