

International Human Resource Management is a cross-college of a syllabus that has developed strongly for itself – helping to shape what it is today. The author team (based in Australia, the UK and Europe) has International Human Resource Management (IHRM) courses with developments in academic curriculum, making this a key resource for international and graduate IHRM students, as well as the business students studying a better business understanding of IHRM.

This new edition is updated to reflect the rise of the external, the emerging technology and digitalisation, the environmental global economy, new market and global responsibilities, and a focus on entrepreneurship.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Peter Dunning is Professor of International Management & Strategy at a Tokyo University, Melbourne, Australia.

Marion Festing is Professor of Human Resource Management and International Leadership at EBS Europe and Director of the Berlin Campus of the University of Hamburg, Germany.

Allen D. Englebert is Professor of Management in the College of Business and Technology at Southern Arkansas University, USA.

FROM THE 19TH EDITION

"What a delight to read the 19th edition of International Human Resource Management by Dunning, Festing and Englebert. These three have led IHRM in the 20th century, but also now include smaller and faster moving firms. This book defines and defines differences and identifies how and where these differences are relevant. Throughout the book are highly available 'Action Cases', current research and practical insights, particularly on implications for entry of modes of international operations, cross-border alliances, mergers and acquisitions and international joint ventures. I highly recommend this to students, students and all practitioners who have international interests."

Professor Mary Ann Bell, Southern Cross International University, USA; Former Executive of International Business Research, Former Executive of Management Research and Strategy Research Institute Chair in International Management, Southern Cross International University

"In the complexity of our business increasingly global, borderless and interconnected, more organisations are multinational and most engage a workforce that spans cultures, cultures and regions. In the 19th edition of International Human Resource Management, Dunning, Festing and Englebert offer an evidence-based and practical framework to guide current and future organisational leaders. With its focus on theory, the book is widely applicable in research, theory and practical experience."

Dr John W. Boudreau, Professor and Research Director, University of Southern California Professor John Boudreau, Southern California University, USA

"The 19th edition of International Human Resource Management represents a valuable update of our knowledge of the field to all its global dimensions. The co-authors clearly 'know their stuff' in the IHRM arena. They will add confidence to managers, students and practitioners around the world for many years to come. The text is well designed and readable, thereby bringing us new insights and understanding."

Professor Deborah Thomas, Robert College and University of Cambridge School of Management, UK

"This outstanding book continues to set the standard in the field of international human resource management. Its international author team has a unique gift of combining what we know from theory and research with current practices and issues to provide the perfect opportunity for students to engage with key problems and challenges that exist within their own context. In addition to evidence and systems throughout, the 19th edition with a focus on global issues management, internationalising the world and modernising the text and a new extensive review of cases issues and management experience in the 19th."

Professor Tony Doherty, School of Management, University of Cambridge School of Management, UK
