Vernacular and Earthen Architecture: Conservation and Sustainability Camilla Mileto, Fernando Vegas López-Manzanares, Lidia García-Soriano, Valentina Cristini, 2017-09-01 Vernacular architecture in general and earthen architecture in particular with their rich variety of forms worldwide are custodians of the material culture and identity of the peoples who built them In addition they are widely recognized as ancestral examples of sustainability in all their variants and interpretations and the architecture of the present ought to learn from these when designing the sustainable architecture of the future The conservation of these architectures seemingly simple yet full of wisdom is to be undertaken now given their intrinsic value and their status as genuine examples of sustainability to be learnt from and interpreted in contemporary architecture Vernacular and earthen architecture Conservation and Sustainability will be a valuable source of information for academics and professionals in the fields of Environmental Science Civil Engineering Construction and Building Engineering and Architecture

The Sustainable Built Environment Begum Sertyesilisik,Ahmed Al Shamma'a,2015-11-27 The text adopts an interdisciplinary approach to address the huge challenges in creating a sustainable built environment In a broad survey of critical issues it assesses procurement cost modelling and management sustainable buildings low and zero carbon technologies sustainability in utilities and the law LEED Reference Guide for Building Design and Construction US Green Building Council,2016-07-01 Sustainable Architectural Design Kuppaswamy Iyengar,2015-05-15 This book is a guide to a sustainable design process that moves from theory to site and energy use to building systems and finally to evaluation and case studies so you can integrate design and technology for effective sustainable building Kuppaswamy Iyengar shows you how to get it right the first time use free energy systems and utilise technologies that minimize fossil fuel use Each chapter has a sustainable design overview technical details and strategies marked by clear sections a summary and further resources Heavily illustrated with charts tables drawings photographs and case studies the book shows technologies and concepts integrated into cohesive project types from small and large office spaces to single and multiuse residences hospitals schools restaurants and warehouses to demonstrate implementing your designs to meet clients needs now and for the future Includes an overview of alternate assessment and evaluation systems such as BREEAM CASBEE GBTool Green Globes alongside LEED ECOTECT energy 10 HEED and eQuest simulation programs The guide reveals the importance of the building envelope walls superstructure insulation windows floors roofs and building materials on the environmental impact of a building and has a section on site systems examining site selection landscape design thermal impact and building placement Prefabricated Construction for Sustainability and Mass Customization ,2024-03-13 Building is a system of energy and environment which needs to accommodate diverse needs and demands at individual and societal levels Nearly 40% of global energy use derives from construction In fact a house consumes a significant amount of energy before and after occupancy and the associated CO2 emissions are contributing to climate change Prefabrication is a means to mass produce buildings or parts and components Thus in theory production costs can be reduced through economies of scale In the 1920s the significance of mass produced houses was widely propagated by Le Corbusier who saw standardization as fundamental to mass production Nonetheless today in response to growing global warming issues and the constant increase in energy prices the construction industry is becoming more responsive to the delivery of sustainable architecture than ever Within this context sustainability may embrace not only building economy but also the adequacy beyond the legitimacy in which the quality barely coincides with individuals various dynamic needs desires and expectations today In this respect mass produced prefabs alone fail to realize total sustainability In 1987 a paradoxical concept of mass customization was introduced by Stanley Davis Nonetheless the idea applied to housing dates back to the 1950s The essence of mass customizable architecture was speculated by Walter Gropius as he emphasized the need for standardizing and mass producing not only entire buildings but also their components The combination of standard building components which can be prefabricated results in mass producing various types of constructions through economies of scope where the quality can be defined by user choices of the components given in consideration of economic constraints and needs and demands This book is an initial attempt to integrate the two notions of sustainability and mass customization by reviewing the potential capacities of prefabricated construction

Health and Well-Being Considerations in the Design of Indoor Environments

González-Lezcano, Roberto A., 2021-06-25 Indoor residential environments have a direct influence on human health both in developed and developing countries. Significant levels of indoor pollution can make housing unsafe and can negatively impact on human health. Housing therefore is a key health factor for people all over the world and various parameters such as air quality, ventilation, hygrothermal comfort, lighting, physical environment, building efficiency and others can contribute to healthy architecture and the conditions that can result from the poor application of these parameters. Health and Well-Being Considerations in the Design of Indoor Environments addresses issues concerning indoor environmental quality (IEQ) including air quality and ventilation, access to daylight and views, acoustic conditions and control over lighting and thermal comfort as well as the impact that this environment can have on human health and mental well-being. The book also investigates the functional aspects of interior design such as whether the layout provides easy access to tools and sufficient space for occupants. It also considers energy demand and building energy losses due to such issues as air renovations and enclosure infiltrations. Covering topics such as sustainable design, pollution, building materials and lighting, this book is an effective resource for students, professors, academicians, researchers, architects, designers, planners, engineers, interior designers, building managers, construction companies and other industry professionals looking to increase building occupant satisfaction by considering all aspects of IEQ.

Improving Energy Efficiency and Reducing Emissions through Intelligent Railway Station Buildings Asian Development Bank, 2015-09-01 Buildings in the People's Republic of China (PRC) consume 21% of the total energy produced in the country. This study analyzes and proposes feasible energy saving and emission reducing solutions for domestic railway stations in the PRC. The use of intelligent building controls support reduction of energy consumption, minimization or elimination of energy wastes and cost savings. Strong institutional mechanisms and railway building management methods and policies also promote technological innovation. Moreover, these are necessary to balance the interests of multiple parties to be able to achieve energy efficiency in railway station buildings in the PRC.
