European Traditions in Didactics of Mathematics Werner Blum,Michèle Artigue,Maria Alessandra Mariotti,Rudolf Strässer,Marja Van den Heuvel-Panhuizen,2019-02-18 This open access book discusses several didactic traditions in mathematics education in countries across Europe including France the Netherlands Italy Germany the Czech and Slovakian Republics and the Scandinavian states It shows that while they all share common features both in the practice of learning and teaching at school and in research and development they each have special features due to specific historical and cultural developments The book also presents interesting historical facts about these didactic traditions the theories and examples developed in these countries

Changing the Course of Failure Sandra Stotsky,2018-05-18 The basic purpose of this book is to help policy makers at all levels of government understand that 1 widespread adolescent underachievement is not susceptible to solution by educational interventions no matter how much money is allocated to public education and 2 there are unidentified educational and civic costs to focusing on low achievement and to expecting public institutions of education for K 12 and college to solve a growing social problem Many policy makers seem to think that teachers schools are the primary cause of low achievement Educational institutions still cannot solve a non education caused problem and haven t done so for over fifty years despite all the public and private money that has been allocated The book concludes with suggested policies for addressing the damage to public education from gap closing standards and with suggested areas for policy making in order to change the current course of failure for many low achieving students
