Sidawi, B. (2013). The tutors' views on the utilization of e-learning system in architectural education. European Journal of Open, Distance and e-Learning, Vol. 16 / No. 2.

1. Title

The title of the study is brief and informative. However, it is not completely clear. It does not clearly show the impact of the utilization of e-learning system in architectural education. Furthermore, it does not mention these useful insights into some theoretical issues and practical implications for policy makers both in the government and universities. Perhaps a better title would be Architectural education: The impact of e-learning system on the teaching system. However, the title make clear the population of interest which is tutors and the major variables; the utilization of e-learning system as an independent variable and architectural education as a dependent variable. Other than that, the title avoids vague, ambiguous, and emotion-laden terms.

2. Statement of the Problem

According to the researcher, the use of e-learning system was assessed by the e-learning deanship and it found that the system is of little use by the faculty of college of Architecture, University of Dammam. Furthermore, he add that a better understanding of the factors that reluctant the faculty to utilize the system and the utilization's obstacles could have theoretical and practical implications to policy makers (both the government and university). This study argues that potential shortages of the system should be dealt with; otherwise, the present e-learning system, as it is, will not respond to the architectural education's needs and would have negative impact on architectural education.

The problem of the study clearly stated. Architectural tutors are reluctant to use e-learning tools and they stick to the traditional face-to-face teaching methodology and tools informed us in undertaking this unique study. It aimed to find out the reason behind the negligence of e-learning tools and the negative attitude of the faculty towards this emerging technology, and how to encourage tutors to adopt and implement these e-learning tools in the architectural

Regulation and Economic Analysis R.L. Gordon,2013-03-09 Regulation and Economic Analysis A Critique Over Two Centuries argues that long experience with the practice of regulation creates a broad anti intervention consensus among economists This consensus is based on comparison of real intervention to real markets rather than an ideological preconception It is shown that economic theory can support all possible positions on intervention Much theory is too abstract to support any policy position many arguments about how intervention might help contain qualifications expressing doubts about whether the potential can be realized many theories illustrate the drawbacks of intervention The vast literature on these issues concentrates either on specific cases or polemics that exaggerate both sides of the argument Regulation and Economic Analysis seeks to show the depth of the discontent develop interpretations of economic theory that follow from skepticism about statism and provide selected illustrations The discussion begins with examination of general equilibrium theory and proceeds to discuss market failure with stress on monopoly and particularly what is deemed excessive concern with predatory behavior International trade issues transaction costs property rights economic theories of government the role of special institutions such as contracts the defects of macroeconomic and equity arguments for regulating individual markets environmental economics and the defects of public land management policies are examined Study Skills for
