Grade Chapter 3 Review Workplace:

An independent review of the Work Capability Assessment Great Britain: Department for Work and Pensions, Malcolm Harrington, 2010-11-23 The Work Capability Assessment WCA was designed to focus on a person's capability rather than their incapacity. It distinguishes between those people who could work, those people who could work at some point with the right support, the Work-related Activity Group, and those people who cannot work, the Support Group. In essence, the WCA was designed to be a first positive step towards work for most people. However, this Review found that the WCA is not working as well as it should. Interactions with both Jobcentre Plus and Atos are often impersonal, mechanistic, and lack clarity. The Jobcentre Plus Decision Makers do not, in practice, make decisions but instead typically rubber stamp the advice provided through Atos. Some conditions are more difficult to assess than others. Communication and feedback between the different agencies and organisations involved is often fragmented. Accordingly, the key recommendations include empowering and investing in Decision Makers to account for the particular difficulties in assessing mental, intellectual, and cognitive impairments by ensuring Atos employ champions of these conditions in each Medical Examination Centre, building more empathy into the process, improving transparency by ensuring each report contains a personalised summary of the Atos healthcare professional's recommendations, and better communication and feedback. Piloting of audio recording of Atos assessments is also suggested. As the first of five annual reviews in the WCA, this report also proposes a programme of work for the second review.

This uniquely practical text presents vivid descriptions of teachers engaged in collaborative processes in actual school settings, from early elementary through high school. Reporting on the work of several of the most important school change networks and institutes, and incorporating the perspectives of education researchers, teacher educators, administrators, and teachers, this volume builds a powerful argument for refocusing professional development on the collaborative and reflective examination of authentic student work rather than relying on representations of student learning such as test scores and
