Great Expectations Charles Dickens, 2014-10-17 I give Pirrip as my father's family name on the authority of his tombstone and my sister Mrs Joe Gargery who married the blacksmith As I never saw my father or my mother and never saw any likeness of either of them for their days were long before the days of photographs my first fancies regarding what they were like were unreasonably derived from their tombstones The shape of the letters on my father's gave me an odd idea that he was a square stout dark man with curly black hair From the character and turn of the inscription Also Georgiana Wife of the Above I drew a childish conclusion that my mother was freckled and sickly To five little stone lozenges each about a foot and a half long which were arranged in a neat row beside their grave and were sacred to the memory of five little brothers of mine who gave up trying to get a living exceedingly early in that universal struggle I am indebted for a belief I religiously entertained that they had all been born on their backs with their hands in their trousers pockets and had never taken them out in this state of existence
