

THE HUMAN BODY: AN ORIENTATION

Most of medicine is concerned with the human body, and the study of anatomy and physiology encompasses this. Anatomic, independent from physiology or other fields, concentrates on the structure of the human body and its relationship to the environment. Physiology, on the other hand, concentrates on the function of the human body and its relationship to the environment. The two fields are closely related and often overlap.

The study of the human body is divided into two main branches: anatomy and physiology. Anatomy is the study of the structure of the human body, and physiology is the study of the function of the human body. The two fields are closely related and often overlap.
