Dismantling Educational Inequality
 Pedro R. Portes,2005 This long awaited solution oriented book helps readers understand how inequality is organized in our public educational system A four component developmental model provides a policy oriented framework that takes into account how children are socialized in and out of schools Given an educational system that produces unequal opportunities for student learning closing the gap requires thinking out of a box and the current conglomeration of social and economic policies A multi level strategy that aims for all to be educated at grade level through a coordinated national strategy is presented to eliminate educational inequality This is a must read controversial book that offers educators and policy makers a fundamental understanding of how the achievement gap can be eliminated at the population level Schooled and Sorted Thurston Domina, Andrew M. Penner, Emily K. Penner, 2023-06-22 We tend to view education primarily as a way to teach students skills and knowledge that they will draw upon as they move into their adult lives However schools do more than educate students they also place students into categories such as kindergartner English language learner or honor roll student In Schooled Sorted Thurston Domina Andrew M Penner and Emily K Penner explore processes of educational categorization in order to explain the complex relationship between education and social inequality and to identify strategies that can help build more just educational systems Some educational categories have broadly egalitarian consequences Indeed Domina Penner and Penner argue that when societies enroll young people in school making them students they mark them as individuals who are worthy of rights But other educational categories reinforce powerful social categories including race gender and class and ultimately reproduce social and economic inequality in society Elite colleges tracked high schools and elementary school gifted programs provide not only different educational experiences but also create merit and inequality by sorting students into categories that are defined by the students who are excluded Schooled Sorted highlights that many of the decisions that define educational categories occur in school based committee meetings and other relatively local settings The local nature of these decisions provides many opportunities to define educational categories differently and for school communities to bring about change Schooled Sorted is an illuminating investigation into the ways sorting within schools translates into inequality in the larger world While some educational categorization may be unavoidable the authors suggest ways to build a more equitable system and thus a more equitable society Transforming Teaching in Math and Science Adam Gamoran, 2003-01-01 Teachers often want to learn new ideas and approaches to improve their teaching but their efforts are often blocked by structural constraints in their districts and schools How can schools overcome these barriers to provide more supportive environments for change The authors answer this question through the study of six cases of schools and districts where teachers and researchers collaborated to develop teaching for understanding in math and science This new book features a new conceptual model of how school resources relate to teaching and learning focusing not only on material resources such as time and money but also on human and social resources methods that administrators can use to support teachers who want to improve their teaching of math and science elements that professional developers should look for in a school environment when they are considering working with staff on teaching improvements and answers to important questions including how schools operate as organizations how they control work how they respond to changes in their environment and how they improve classroom teaching and learning
