The Stark Carpathians Anthony J. Amato, 2024-01-29 The Stark Carpathians Ritual Text and Authority Among Ukraine's Hutsuls addresses rituals and texts in a small mountainous area located in today's Ukraine The residents of this remote region are known as the Hutsuls This book argues that Hutsul rituals and texts cast as ancient and extraordinary had more mundane roots They formed out of contact between the region's residents and lowland institutions and they became foundations for everyday life Words and symbolic action had an inherent tension that stemmed from contests over authority The nature of these contests was such that distant officials willful locals and diverse sources of information were often as important as collective traditions in shaping rituals and texts Prolific producers of texts Hutsuls carried on discussions that included diverse topics such as agriculture astrology mass gymnastics divine punishment and witches and vampires This volume covers these and other discussions in their small and exact particulars and it investigates texts and rituals in their fullness and irreducible complexity By crossing traditional lines of inquiry and following the region's winding trails to their divergent ends this book offers insight into a larger Hutsul world Ultimately the study of Hutsul creations informs the study of rituals and texts in many elsewhere far from the Carpathian Mountains

Stigma Gerhard Falk, 2010-04-06 What is it in human nature that leads us to label some as insiders and stigmatize others as outsiders Sociologist Gerhard Falk examines the social psychology that motivates this process of exclusion focusing on the outcasts in contemporary American society and comparing current experience with examples from the past Referring to the work of Emile Durkheim and Erving Goffman

Falk reviews the whole range of stigmatized people from the mentally ill to ordinary people with unpopular occupations like undertakers and trash collectors. Amid the wide diversity of stigmatized persons he finds two basic types of outsiders: the existential and the achieved. The first group comprises those who are stigmatized because of their very existence regardless of their specific actions; the mentally handicapped, for example. The second group describes those whose actions or life conditions have resulted in stigma from high achievers often subject to resentment to criminals. Falk also looks at the ways in which writers past and present have dramatized stigmatized characters in literature. This fascinating overview of a long standing and widespread social problem will be of interest to all those concerned about creating a more fair minded society.

Vocabulary in a Second Language Paul Bogaards, Batia Laufer, 2004-07-29. The eleven chapters of Vocabulary in a Second Language are written by the world's leading researchers in the field of vocabulary studies in second language acquisition. Racial Situations John Hartigan Jr., 2020-10-06. Racial Situations challenges perspectives on race that rely upon oft repeated claims that race is culturally constructed and hence simply false and distorting. John Hartigan asserts instead that we need to explain how race is experienced by people as a daily reality. His starting point is the lives of white people in Detroit. As a distinct minority, whites in this city can rarely assume they are racially unmarked and normative privileges generally associated with whiteness. Hartigan conveys their attempts to make sense of how race matters in their lives and in Detroit generally. Rather than compiling a generic sampling of white views, Hartigan develops an ethnographic account of whites in three distinct neighborhoods: an inner city underclass area, an adjacent debatably gentrifying community and a working class neighborhood bordering one of the city's wealthy suburbs. In tracking how racial tensions develop or become defused in each of these sites, Hartigan argues that whites do not articulate their racial identity strictly in relation to a symbolic figure of black Otherness. He demonstrates instead that intraracial class distinctions are critical in whites' determinations of when and how race matters. In each community, the author charts a series of names, hillbilly, gentrifier and racist, which whites use to make distinctions among themselves. He shows how these terms function in everyday discourses that reflect the racial consciousness of the communities and establish boundaries of status and privilege among whites in these areas.

A Philosophical Theory of Citizenship Steven J. Wulf, 2008-01-01. A Philosophical Theory of Citizenship answers seminal questions about legal obligation, government authority and political community. It employs an idiomatic theory of reality, ethical conduct and the self to justify patriotic duty, classical liberty and national sovereignty.

Dislocating Anthropology? Simon Coleman, Peter Collins, 2020-05-15 Anthropology continues to develop both in terms of theory and in relation to the ways in which fieldwork is conducted Dislocating Anthropology seeks to capture and represent these developments through a collection of ethnographic essays that are cutting edge but which do not represent a complete break with what has gone before In recent years anthropologists have increasingly come to accept that fieldwork in bounded and discrete places is no longer tenable People can no longer be represented in these static parochial terms At the start of the 21st century and with the possibility of internet connections almost anywhere we have the potential to move even when we are stationary Each of the contributors to this collection have identified and attempted to understand sets of relationships that are both temporally and spatially dynamic that appear to flow into and out of the field Together the chapters shed light on a number of methodological conundrums or dislocations relating for example to locality identity fieldwork and reflexivity The book is concerned with dislocation as both practice and process and as such extends a theme that has arguably been central to Anthropology since Malinowski s Trobriand ethnography
