2 pages | 317 words

Lifespan development draws on ideas from the theory of evolution, which suggests that we adapt to ensure our survival. As society, culture, and history change, we must also adapt to these changes to ensure our survival. Social, cultural, and historical influences play a vital role in human development. One way to examine lifespan development is by interviewing people about their life experiences and giving them the opportunity to highlight any influence on their development. The following project seeks to do just that, which leads me to the title: "What are the similarities and differences between Tony and Jo's childhood and life experiences compared to those of their own children, and what have been the main sources of influence on their development?" The project uses a pre-recorded videotape by the Open University containing three semi-structured interviews conducted by three different interviewers on the same two participants, Tony and Jo, a married middle-aged couple. The interviews are conducted in succession, with the first interviewer, Jane Tobbell, having known the couple for some time, while the second (Dan Goodley) and third (Carol Tindall) have not met them before. The interviews are filmed by a camera crew, and along with the video tape, the researcher had access to the transcripts of the interviews. Ethical issues were considered in this psychological research project. For instance, the participants' surnames, Jo and Tony, are not disclosed to protect their anonymity. Moreover, the participants are not pressured into responding in a particular way, and the questions they are asked are open-ended. The interviews appear to be relaxed, and the participants are treated with respect, while the interviewers' responses are non-judgmental. In the third interview, the participants are encouraged to give feedback on the interviewers' styles, acknowledging that they are involved in the research process, and their input is vital. This is the researcher's first qualitative project while studying the Open University course DSE 212 Exploring Psychology.

The Aging Consumer Aimee Drolet, Carolyn Yoon, 2020-10-01 The Aging Consumer Perspectives from Psychology and Marketing 2nd edition takes stock of what is known around age and consumer behavior identifies gaps and open questions within the research and outlines an agenda for future research There has been little systematic research done with respect to the most basic questions related to age and consumer behavior such as whether older adults versus young and middle age adults respond to marketing activities including pricing promotions product design and distribution Written by experts The Aging Consumer compiles research on a broad range of topics on consumer marketing from an individual to a societal level of analysis This second edition provides new versions of chapters contained in the 2010 volume that have been updated to reflect the latest psychological and marketing research and thinking Included also are ten new chapters which cover exciting new ground such as changes in metacognition in older adults motivated cognition of the aging consumer and a global perspective on aging and the economy across cultures This updated volume is beneficial for researchers and practitioners in marketing consumer behavior and advertising Additionally The Aging Consumer 2nd edition will appeal to professionals in other fields such as psychology decision sciences gerontology and gerontological social work and those who are concerned with normal human aging and its implications for the everyday behavior of older individuals It will also be of interest to those in fields concerned with the societal implications of an aging population such as economics policy and law The Developing Person Through the Lifespan (paper) Kathleen Stassen Berger, 2004-03-26 The new edition of The Developing Person Through the Lifespan combines theory and the most up to date research with practical illustration in order to engage readers in the study of development It addresses the fundamental issues from a chronological point of view and covers the entirety of the lifespan not just infancy or adolescence The book's enhanced pedagogy works alongside the author's lively narrative voice to ensure that this edition remains as user friendly if not more so than its predecessors Resources in Education, 1999-10 Human Motor Development: A Lifespan Approach V. Gregory Payne, Larry Isaacs, 2008 Now in its seventh edition this topically organized text provides a comprehensive introduction to lifespan motor development and includes the most current research findings available in the field The text takes a lifespan approach to development with thorough coverage of prenatal childhood adolescent and adult development Theoretical concepts are conveyed through language appropriate for undergraduate students This is the only lifespan motor development text that presents both the component approach and the total body approach for analyzing the basic fundamental and object control skills of childhood Community-Based Transformational Learning Christian Winterbottom, Jody S. Nicholson, F. Dan Richard, 2020-05-14 Rooted in the work of community school collaborations this text focuses on connecting the rigors of the classroom with the ambiguity of lived community experience Community Based Transformational Learning CBTL draws on the increasing evidence that course learning conducted in an applied community setting can positively transform students' professional and personal identity and creates new ways of thinking and working in university courses and pre-professional experiences To illustrate the different ways to successfully implement community based learning examples are provided of experiences integrated in courses across multiple disciplines across an American university whose mission is focused on teaching Topics covered include refugee and immigration transition issues incarceration and health needs with international examples of community experiences from Jamaica Korea and Belize Qualitative and quantitative data depict how these experiences impact students and each chapter presents how community engagement has been established as an effective approach in the different disciplines including computer science and sports management The authors demonstrate how CBTL experiences can be transformative when students are provided a chance to connect the academic commitment to community aims but also provides suggestions for overcoming challenges and pitfalls in developing these experiences The Palgrave Handbook of Servant Leadership Gary E. Roberts, 2023-04-11 This reference work offers comprehensive perspectives on servant leadership Featuring a cadre of leading world class scholars practitioners and contributing authors from diverse fields of inquiry it aims to collate research on servant leadership with a particular focus on its moral and spiritual dimensions It is divided into sections that center on topics such as character philosophical influences diversity and inclusion critiques of servant leadership as well as examples of servant leaders Though first introduced in the 1970 by Robert Greenleaf the field of servant leadership is still lacking consensus on a definition and a theoretical framework The goal of this reference work is to begin to fill this gap by assembling the scholarship of the top scholars in this field and providing a go to source for information on the theory and practice of servant leadership This handbook will serve as an essential resource for researchers scholars and students of organizational behavior human resource management and business ethics as well as consultants and business leaders interested in discovering the best leadership models to suit contemporary organizations

Nutritional influences on human neurocognitive functioning

Michael Smith,Andrew Scholey,2014-11-04 You are what you eat It s a saying that we ve all heard time and time again The notion that good nutrition is essential for adequate growth and sound physical wellbeing is very well established Further in recent years there has been an overwhelming increase in research dedicated to better understanding how nutritional factors influence cognition and behaviour For example several studies have suggested that higher foetal exposure to omega 3 fatty acids and B vitamins such as folate promotes neurodevelopment B vitamins may also play a role in neurocognitive functioning in later life with some suggestion that lower vitamin B levels are associated with increased risk of dementia although randomised controlled trials investigating B vitamin supplementation as a cognitive enhancer in the elderly have provided inconclusive evidence as to the benefits of such therapy for dementia In fact the nutritional underpinnings of Alzheimer s disease and other disorders of cognitive ageing is becoming a much researched topic In addition consumption of several other foods has been found to convey more acute cognitively enhancing effects For example ingestion of carbohydrates e g glucose caffeine resveratrol and several nutraceutical herbal extracts has been associated with short term improvements in cognitive performance Beyond specific micronutrients and macronutrients the current literature seems to support anecdotal evidence that consumption of a balanced breakfast is crucial to various measures of school performance including attention in the classroom What is clear from this emerging literature is that the relationship between nutritional status and neurocognitive functioning at various stages of the lifespan is complex An aim of this Research Topic is to bring together some recent empirical findings reviews and commentaries of the literature to date and opinion pieces relating to future directions for this burgeoning field
