Brexit and Agriculture Ludvine Petetin, Mary Dobbs, 2022-01-31 Acknowledging the challenges and opportunities raised by Brexit for the agrifood supply chain and agricultural policies across the UK this book provides the first in depth analysis of agricultural policy developments across the UK's four nations rooted in strong theoretical and practical underpinnings. Arguing that the four nations could be more ambitious in departing from the Common Agricultural Policy and extending beyond the public money for public goods approach adopted across the UK, it critiques the core attributes of their policies with focuses including the debate over outcome based schemes, governance mechanisms, impacts on farm diversity and path dependency on the Common Agricultural Policy and English approaches. It promotes a resilient agriculture paradigm and utilises social ecological services, net zero agroecology and agri food democracy as the main pathways to achieve this. In doing so, it scrutinises the evolving contextual political and legal landscape within which devolved and UK agricultural policies are developing from a multilevel governance perspective, examining the implications of WTO law for the UK and its devolved administrations to determine environmental food and animal welfare standards under the GATT, the SPS and TBT Agreements and financial support schemes under the Agreement on Agriculture. The book assesses the significance of the Northern Ireland Protocol, the Trade and Cooperation Agreement with the EU and other free trade agreements for standards across the UK and access to markets. From a domestic perspective, challenges to devolution and the stability of the Union are highlighted. Elements of unilateral recentralisation are visible via financing mechanisms, the UK Internal Market Act and the Agriculture Act. The book's interdisciplinary nature makes it of interest to lawyers, political scientists, economists, human geographers and scientists as well as policymakers, agricultural communities, civil society organisations and think tanks in the devolved administrations, the UK, the EU and beyond.

The Routledge Handbook of Religions and Global Development Emma Tomalin, 2015-02-11. This Handbook provides a cutting edge survey of the state of research on religions and global development. Part one highlights critical debates that have emerged within research on religions and development, particularly with respect to theoretical, conceptual and methodological considerations from the perspective of development studies and its associated disciplines. Parts two to six look at different regional and national development contexts and the place of religion within these. These parts integrate and examine the critical debates raised in part one within empirical case studies from a range of religions and regions. Different religions are situated within actual locations and case studies, thus allowing a detailed and contextual understanding of their relationships to development to emerge. Part seven examines the links between some important areas within development policy and practice where religion is now being considered, including Faith Based Organisations and Development, Public Health, Religion and Development, Human rights, Religion and Development, Sustainable Development, Climate Change and Religion, Global Institutions and Religious Engagement in Development, Economic Development and Religion, Religion Development and Fragile States, Development and Faith Based Education. Taking a global approach, the Handbook covers Africa, Latin America, South Asia, East and South East Asia and the Middle East. It is essential reading for students and researchers in development studies and religious studies and is highly relevant to those working in area studies as well as a range of disciplines from theology, anthropology and economics to geography, international relations, politics and sociology
