Wittink, Michel Wedel, Philippe A. Naert, 2013-06-29 This book is about marketing models and the process of model building Our primary focus is on models that can be used by managers to support marketing decisions It has long been known that simple models usually outperform judgments in predicting outcomes in a wide variety of contexts For example models of judgments tend to provide better forecasts of the outcomes than the judgments themselves because the model eliminates the noise in judgments And since judgments never fully reflect the complexities of the many forces that influence outcomes it is easy to see why models of actual outcomes should be very attractive to marketing decision makers Thus appropriately constructed models can provide insights about structural relations between marketing variables Since models explicate the relations both the process of model building and the model that ultimately results can improve the quality of marketing decisions Managers often use rules of thumb for decisions For example a brand manager will have defined a specific set of alternative brands as the competitive set within a product category Usually this set is based on perceived similarities in brand characteristics advertising messages etc If a new marketing initiative occurs for one of the other brands the brand manager will have a strong inclination to react The reaction is partly based on the manager's desire to maintain some competitive parity in the marketing variables Developing New Products and Services Lawrence

Sanders,2011-10-14 This book will focus on the up front activities required for product and service differentiation the learning methodologies that contribute to arriving at that differentiation and the role that technology plays in implementing the process The book will show how technology factors into such entrepreneurial activities as engaging in business planning and utilizing creativity and innovation and how creative innovation in turn is achieved and enhanced through an understanding of two different modes of learning learning about and learning by doing A successful product introduction depends on an efficient supply chain a strong brand and the ability of a manufacturer or provider to differentiate it successfully in the marketplace New Product and Services Development demonstrates how differentiation this last critical component can be secured by the strategic use of technology and by engaging in two key learning methodologies Core Curriculum in Agriculture ,1989 Business Transformation Strategies Oswald A J Mascarenhas,2011-02-14 A resource for industry professionals and consultants this book on corporate strategy lays down the theories and models for revitalizing companies in the face of global recession It discusses cutting edge concepts constructs paradigms theories models and cases of corporate strategic leadership for bringing about transformation and innovation in companies Each chapter in the book is appended with transformation exercises that further explicate the concepts Molecular Marketing.
