Gregor Mendel's original ideas on how hereditary information is passed:

- 1. Hereditary information that comes from parents are controlled by genes and that these genes have a hereditary basis in cells. The hereditary information is an individual's genotype. Genotype is the genetic information that is passed on to offspring.
- 2. Genes are passed on to offspring in populations. Individuals in a population share a common group of genes, called a gene pool.
- 3. Allele frequency: is the number of copies of an allele present in a gene pool. Allele frequency is the number of copies of an allele that is present in a gene pool. Allele frequency is the number of copies of an allele that is present in a gene pool.

 Mauricio,2005-07-20 An enduring controversy in evolutionary biology is the genetic basis of adaptation Darwin emphasized many slight differences as the ultimate source of variation to be acted upon by natural selection In the early 1900 s this view was opposed by Mendelian geneticists who emphasized the importance of macromutations in evolution The Modern Synthesis resolved this controversy concluding that mutations in genes of very small effect were responsible for adaptive evolution A decade ago Allen Orr and Jerry Coyne reexamined the evidence for this neo Darwinian view and found that both the theoretical and empirical basis for it were weak Orr and Coyne encouraged evolutionary biologists to reexamine this neglected question what is the genetic basis of adaptive evolution In this volume a new generation of biologists have taken up this challenge Using advances in both molecular genetic and statistical techniques evolutionary geneticists have made considerable progress in this emerging field In this volume a diversity of examples from plant and animal studies provides valuable information for those interested in the genetics and evolution of complex traits
